HOUSE WINS ON VETERANS PAY

TORNADO STRUCK IN NEW ORLEANS TODAY AND MANY INJURED

DOZEN PERSONS SERIOUSLY HURT AND HUNDRED HOMES WERE WRECKED

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 26. (AP)—A wind of tornado force, driving a cloudburst of rain before it, today dipped into four sections of lower New Orleans, demolishing or damaging approximately 100 homes and seriously injuring at least 12 persons.

Scores of others were less seriously hurt, but an accurate check was impossible during the morning, many seeking first aid and shelter while slashing rain continued to drive across the city.

Hours after the storm struck, dozens of the homeless continued to wander panic stricken through the razed areas, looking for members of their families from whom they had become separated and resisting police efforts to get everyone under shelter.

Darkness hung over the city hours after the storm struck, and a trip through the littered streets found many standing on their tilted porches, holding "holy candles" in their hands and uttering prayers of thanksgiving for their escape with their lives.

The wind, described by the New Orleansweather bureau as "a thunder squall of great intensity," apparently developed over the Mississippi river, flew high across the city and dipped first on St. Claude avenue, levilling a second-hand car garage and crushing 20 automobiles. Blackness filled the area as electric lights went out.

Skipping two blocks, the wind came down next on a corner filling station, twisting its standing steel equipment into a mass of junk.

The wind rose again for a block and then struck its most violent

Dairy Cattle Basic Commodity For Farm Act

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—The conference report on the Jones bill to make beef and dairy cattle a basic commodity under the farm adjustment act was adopted today by the house and sent to the senate.

The bill authorizes a processing tax to raise $200,000,000 or immediate distribution to the cattle industry in return for a reduction in production and surpluses.

In addition, it leaves it to the discretion of the secretary of agriculture to make peanuts, rye, flax, barley and grain sorghums basic commodities under the farm act, but provides for no processing taxes for them.

RAIL PEACEMAKER ON THE JOB

Joseph B. Eastman, Federal Co-ordinator of Transportation, who is arbitrating the grievances between the railroads and railroad brotherhoods over wages, is interviewed by eager reporters as he leaves conference with rail chiefs at Washington.

WAGNER BILL BACK IN LIMELIGHT AFTER STRIKE SETTLEMENT

HOUSE SENT AIRMAIL BILL TO PRESIDENT; TARIFF BILL DUE CONSIDERATION

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—Now that the automobile strike threat has been dissipated by Presidential action, the Wagner labor board bill became more the focus of controversy today with the manufacturing world denouncing it as "unsound."

On many tongues, as the senate and house proper dealt with other matters, was the question what effect will terms of the Roosevelt automobile settlement have on the Wagner bill?

The legislation would outlaw company unions. Such unions are acknowledged as regular under the plan accepted by principals to the quarrel in the motor industry.

Before returning to the reciprocal tariff bill, the house went through some final motions on the temporary air mail and cattle commodity measures.

The first, regularizing army flying of the mails temporarily, now goes to the President.

TAXICAB STRIKE STILL UNSETTLED IN NEW YORK CITY

STRIKERS REFUSE TO ABIDE BY PLEBISCITE AGREED UPON BY THEIR LEADERS

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Leaders of New York's striking taxi drivers were called on the carpet before Mayor LaGuardia today to explain their sudden decision against a plebiscite on the question of unionization.

The abrupt change of front came at a meeting of the strikers last night, and it precipitated a flare-up of the rioting in the theatrical district which characterized the strike last week.

Drivers were pulled out of their cars, stones were hurled though windows and doors torn off the vehicles as several thousand strikers crowded down Broadway. One driver reported that several shots had been fired at his cab, one glancing off the windshield several inches above his head. The throngs of Sunday night movie goers pouring into Times Square were thrown into confusion as heavy details of police and plainclothesmen struggled to break up the mob of strikers.

At a meeting in St. Nicholas arena 7,000 strikers enthusiastically voted to reject the plebiscite which their leaders had promised Mayor LaGuardia on Saturday to support.

The leaders gave no explanation to the men as to why they were being urged to reject the previously agreed upon plan, except to say they did not like

AGREEMENT REACHED ON LABOR SITUATION IN MOTOR INDUSTRY

WORKERS GRANTED RIGHT COLLECTIVE BARGAINING BY OWN REPRESENTATIVES

By JAMES COPE

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—President Roosevelt looks for a new order in the relations between the working man and his employer as a result of his eleventh-hour settlement of the controversy that threatened a general strike in the automobile industry.

He and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson obtained an agreement from executives and labor leaders last night after weeks of negoiations. It established representation for all employes dealing with management, while extending fresh safeguards to all unions against intimidation or interference.

"It is my hope," said the president, "that this system may develop into a kind of works council in industry in which all groups of employes, whatever may be their choice of organization or form of representation, may participate in joint conference with their employers."

He hailed this as a basis for a more comprehensive, adequate and equitable system of relations than ever has existed in a large industry.

Under the agreement the NRA planned to complete before nightfall a three-man board, with one neutral member and one from either side. It will sit in Detroit and there settle all questions of employe representation, including discharges and claims of discrimination.

Airmail Bill Was Approved By House on Monday

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—The house today approved the administration's temporary airmail bill; completing congressional action on the measure. It now goes to the White House.

There was no doubt on Capitol Hill that President Roosevelt would sign it.

Without a dissenting vote, the house adopted a conference report comprising its differences with the senate.

In final form, the bill authorizes the postmaster general to use army airplanes and equipment for mail carrying; requires that the planes be equipped for "safe" day and night flying and the pilots trained in the use of the equipment; allows payment of expenses incurred by men used in the mail service; permits the replacement and repair of planes lost or damaged in mail service and directs the postmaster general to tell congress on the first day of its next session how much it cost to have the army carry the mails.

ACTION ON NEW YORK TAXI FRONT

Outbreak of rioting in New York's taxi strike was quelled only when police were permitted to use clubs and draw guns after strikers had rampaged through the theatrical district, smashing cabs and beating non-striking drivers. Above, left, strikers are pulling a working driver from his cab, and right, a policeman and rioter lock horns on the sidewalk. Seventy were arrested and scores hurt in free-for-all.

AUTOMOBILES MUST BE REGISTERED BY MIDNIGHT MARCH 31

DELINQUENT TAX PENALTIES WILL BE INCREASED ON APRIL FIRST

Only one week remains for Navarro county car owners to secure their 1934 registration plates without penalty, Tax Collector R. L. Harris said Monday, and all registrations after midnight, April 1, will have a 20 per cent penalty added.

Registrations for 1934 are running approximately 1,000 above the 1933 figures, the tax collector reported, a total of 5941 vehicles having been registered so far this year, compared with 4960 for the 1933 period. He also stated that his office would not be open next Sunday and that all registrations would have to be made before Saturday night.

He also called attention of tax payers to the fact that on April 1 the penalties on taxes delinquent for years prior to 1933 would be increased from 4 to 6 per cent, and on 1933 delinquencies would be increased from 10 to 11 per cent. Mr. Harris pointed out that these advances were fixed by law and were mandatory. He announced that after July 1, the penalties on all delinquent taxes would become 10 per cent plus 6 per cent interest for the period of delinquency.

The tax collector reported that a supply of beer licenses had been ordered and would be ready for issuance as soon as the applications were approved by the commissiner's court.

SNOW AND RAIN ARE BENEFICIAL TO TEXAS CROPS IN WEEKEND

HEAVIEST SNOW ON RECORD FOR LENGTH OF TIME FELL IN PANHANDLE

AMARILLO, March 26.—(AP)—Snow which in some localities was record-breaking brought the greatest relief of the year to the wheat belt of the middle and western panhandle yesterday and last night while rain fell to the east and north.

The 42-year record of the U. S. Weather bureau here was broken with 21 inches of snow in the last 24 hours. The precipitation was 2.06 inches. The previous snow record was 17.5 inches on February 24, 1903.

The heaviest snow fall was from the vicinity of Amarillo to Clovis, N. M., where 23 inches was recorded.

Heavier precipitation however, was reported in the northeastern panhandle where rain and snow amounted to three inches of moisture.

In the Perryton area, where grain men report the finest wheat in the southwest, there was sufficient moisture to assure an average crop. It was the general belief that many other sections of the wheat belt, where the wheat is up and growing, would have a harvest little short of

SUPERVISION EAST TEXAS REFINERIES UNDER COMMISSION

STATE REGULATORY BODY WINS FIRST COURT TEST ON VALIDITY NEW LAW

AUSTIN, March 26.—(AP)—Supervision of East Texas oil refineries by the Texas railroad commission was under way today, that regulatory body having won the initial court test on validity of the act conferring that power to them.

Constitutionality of the recently enacted statute was upheld by District Judge J. D. Moore after a hearing on the application of Geo. L. Culver of Gladewater owner of two refineries in Upshur county, for an injunction to enjoin enforcement of the act.

Attorneys for Culver, however, planned to keep the litigation alive. They obtained permission to amend their original petition and planned to seek a trial of the case later.

Enforcement of the new act against all refineries in the state likely will be discussed at a statewide oil hearing of the commission here Wednesday. When the act became effective March 9, the commission readopted a previous order which required reports only from East Texas refineries.

An order of the commission was not necessary, they contended, as a prerequisite to enforcement of other provisions of the law which gave commission agents authority to inspect records and properties of refineries.

SENATE SUBMITS HOUSE REDUCTIONS IN COMPENSATION

ALSO AGREES TO HOUSE PLANS FOR LESS FEDERAL PAY RESTORATION

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26.—(AP)—Congressional action was completed today on the controversial independent offices appropriation bill providing war veterans' allowances and return of part of government employes cut pay, and the measure was sent to an uncertain fate at the white house.

The house agreed to a senate amendment by Steiwer (R-Ore.) after the senate had concurred in house approval of $83,000,000 for veterans and $126,000,000 for government employes.

The Senate previously had voted $118,000,000 for veterans and $190,000,000 for restoration of part of government workers' cut pay.

Democratic leaders insisted off the floor the President would veto the bill in the hope a compromise could be worked out to restore presumptive veterans cases with a clause that they should stand further review.

Other veteran's advocates predicted the President would sign the bill.

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—The senate today concurred in the less liberal veterans' benefits voted by the house but added a clarifying amendment which requires house approval before the controverted independent offices

Man Gives Self Up; Says Took Federal Money

DALLAS, March 26.—(AP)—A man who gave the name of L. M. Butler, 45, of Amarillo walked into the Sheriff's office today and asked to be put in jail, explaining he had absconded with $300 from a government civilian conservation corps camp near Amarillo.

"I have been on the verge of a nervous breakdown over what I did and the subsequent fear of arrest," the man told Smoot Schmid, sheriff. "I just couldn't stand it any longer so I have come in to surrender and take my medicine."

Butler said he had been working at the camp in Palo Duro canyon and decided to leave with $400 in government funds. He requested the sheriff to notify Capt. J. J. Hansey, in charge of the camp, but the officer notified department of justice agents instead.

PROGRESS, PROBLEMS AND PROSPECTS FOR AAA TOLD IN REPORT ISSUED MONDAY

By CARL C. CRANMER

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—The progress, problems and prospects of the agricultural adjustment administration in the first nine months of its existence are told in a 393-page book issued today.

Created May 12, 1933, the administration sums up its activities up to February 15, 1934. The assertion is made that "a partial measure of economic relief has been brought to American agriculture" and the farm income from crops, (excluding livestock) is estimated to have been increased from $2,113,000,000 in 1932 to $3,271,000,000 in 1933.

"The full result of a number of important projects launched in 1933 hae not yet been felt,." a foreword adds.

The administration summarizes its accomplishments and some of its projects as follows:

Cotton—The 1933 farm value of the crop, plus rental payments and profits from options, was $857,248,000, compared with $425,488,000 in 1932. Unless the yield per acre in 1934 is much larger than normal the world supply of American cotton, which was 26,000,000 bales in 1931-32, will be reduced to 20,000,000 bales, only 2,000,000 bale in excess of a "balanced statistical position." Should yields this year be excessive it may be necessary to curtail production again in 1935.

Wheat—The 1933 income of the nation's wheat growers is estimated at $376,000,000 compared with $196,000,000 in 1932. The American carryover of 389,000,000 bushels last July is expected to be reduced to 300,000,000 or less next July, although the unknown extent of spring planting and of increased planting by non-signers make a forecast of 1934 production impossible now.

Corn and Hogs—The gross return from the emergency "pig and sow slaughtering" program is estimated to have been increased from

NEW SWITCHBOARD LOCAL TELEPHONE COMPANY IN USE

CHANGE INAUGURATED ON SCHEDULE AND WITHOUT HINDERING SERVICE

At a given signal at 12:14 Sunday morning, operators in the Southwestern Bell Telephone office pulled "heatcoils" from the old switchboard, while "picks" were simultaneously plugged into the newly installed $140,000 board, and at 12:17, three minutes later, Corsicana's new telephone service was put into operation. Despite the twenty-four hours rain that preceded the change-over, which usually causes telephone trouble, Corsicana's telephone service was not interrupted, and not a call was missed.

On the eve of the change-over, [illegible] officials and employees of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company celebrated with A. L. Jones, Dallas, technical engineer and installation foreman, the completion of his 35 years service with the company, in a dinner in the phone office building. Mr. Jones was given a button indicating his seniority with the company.

"The lack of friction, and on loss of time in changing to the new switchboard," R. R. Brown, district manager, said Monday morning, "was a tribute to the efficiency of the corps of workers who installed the new Western Electric and auxiliary equipment during the past entire year, in which 11,000 man-hours were required."

Change Took Two Minutes.

PRESIDENT PLANS TO LEAVE ON TRIP TO SOUTH TUESDAY

WILL TAKE FISHING TRIP IN FLORIDA WATERS TO OCCUPY ABOUT WEEK

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—President Roosevelt, now that a load is off his mind, heeded the call of Southern seas today. Cheered by the settlement of the automobile trouble, he packed up to sail tomorrow night on a fishing cruise.

The chief executive, however, is seeking a solution of three other pressing problems before taking the train for Jacksonville, Florida, where he will board the yacht Nourmahal, owned by Vincent Astor.

He wants to see the railroad wage controversy settled; some definite action by congress on the veterans-government pay row and an understanding on return of the airmail to private companies.

Leaving here tomorrow night, Mr. Roosevelt plans to board the Nourmahal Wednesday morning in Jacksonville and head for the fishing grounds in the warm waters to the south.

He will be back in Washington by the end of next week, thus giving opportunity for action on any legislation which may be passed by congress before the ten-day constitutional time limit elapses.

The trip this time aboard the Nourmahal is almost identical with the one he made a year ago on the same yacht. He probably will end his water journey at

AUTOMOBILE SHOW, NEW DEAL MERCHANDISE DISPLAY OPENS CORSICANA WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Last minute touches were being added Monday to the Corsicana Automobile Show which will open in the old Drane and McKee building on Wednesday night in connection with the New Deal merchandise display by Corsicana merchants. Officials of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the events, were anticipating one of the largest attendance records in the history of the county during the last four days of this week.

Early Wednesday morning, a majority of the merchants of the city are planning to co-operate in the movement by veiling or covering their display windows while they install unique and extensive exhibits of the latest merchandise. At 7:30 Wednesday night, a siren will be sounded in the business district and simultaneously all of the windows will be unveiled and uncovered presenting the exhibits to the residents of Corsicana and its trade territory.

All Are Invited.

Invitations have been extended to all communities within thirty miles or more of Corsicana to attend the event and participate in the shoppers' parade. At 9:30 the doors of the automobile show will be opened for the first time, displaying thirty or more of the latest models of the products of American motor car manufacturers.

During the remainder of the week, Corsicana merchants will offer unusual inducements to the pre-Easter shopper in the form of bargains in the latest seasonal merchandise, and will make every effort to convince the people of Central Texas that a complete market for every need exists in this city.

In addition to the displays of the latest types of automobiles, the show is expected to present a number of unusual features, including two or perhaps three "cutaway" models values at several thousand dollars which clearly demonstrate tre operation of a modern motor vehicle.

Many Features.

Other features will include a large mechanized model of a prehistoric animal, the dinosaur, shown by the Sinclair Oil and Refining company; and a real Indian tepee and family, by the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company. These were outstanding attractions at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show which closed at Fort Worth recently.

Local manufacturers and distributors will also serve free chili and free coffee during the three days and four nights of the automobile show.

All Space Taken.

Every foot of available space in the exhibit building has been taken and several other exhibitors had to be turned down because of the limitations of the structure. Corsicana merchants and florists have co-operated in the decorating of the building, and it will present a very pleasing appearance when formally opened Wednesday night at 9:30 for the first automobile show in Corsicana in more than a decade.

Entertainment programs will be presented each evening at 8:30 under the general chairmanship of J. S. Murchison. No formal program has been arranged for the opening night, but on Thursday a number of the outstanding vocalists of the county will be presented by Joel C. Trimble, chairman for the evening. It is also planned to have a band concert during the evening.

On Friday night, negro singers will be features with a colored quartet and numbers by colored choirs including spirituals and other folk solgs forming the major part of the program.

On Saturday night an old fiddlers contest will be staged to bring the show to a grand climax.

COLORFUL FIGURE IN OIL WORLD DIED IN SHANGHAI HOTEL

C. C. JULIAN, ONCE WORTH MILLIONS, CLAIMED SUICIDE IN POVERTY

By MORRIS J. HARIS
(Associated Press Foreign Staff).

SHANGHAI, March 26.—(AP)—The death of C. C. Julian, who made millions in oil and died in poverty, was coldly and officially recorded in a Shanghai public mortuary today.

C. E. Vandeveer, an American who knew Julian in California a quarter of a century ago, identified the body.

It was said there would be no official opinion as to the cause of death until a formal inquest Thursday. Physicians who worked over Julian after he had been found in an Tstor House hotel room yesterday by the young woman who was his dinner companion, said that without doubt Julian took his own life.

However, some of Julian's close associates insisted they believed he killed himself unintentionally.

Vandeveer, who lived in California when Julian was getting his start in the oil business in which he became a powerful figure in Oklahoma, now is the local representative for an American (Sherwin-Williams) paint company.

Vandeveer said he had helped Julian financially since the latter's arrival in Shanghai a year ago in default of $25,000 bail in Oklahoma where he was charged with fraud in connection with his financial operations.

CONSCIENCE DRIVES MAN TO CONFESS CRIME HE COMMITTED IN MEMPHIS FIVE YEARS AGO

HOUSTON, March 26.—(AP)—Driven to desperation by haunting memories of a strange crime in which a drunken man was stripped of his clothing, and left to die of cold on a Memphis Tenn., street, James E. Shipley surrendered to police here and, he said, gained mental relief by telling of the tragic deed.

Conscience - stricken dreams which he said disrupted his sleep ever since commission of the crime five years ago drove him into the empty life of a vagabond and finally brought him to the point where he decided he must either commit suicide or tell authorities of what he had done.

Unable to end his life by drowning, the 24-year-old Memphis man, who said he once worked as a copy boy on the Press-Scimitar in that city, walked into Houston police headquarters and blurted out his story to officers and newspapermen.

"I was drunk," he said. "I met this man on the street. It was cold and I asked him to have a drink with me. We drank what whiskey I had left and then we went to a negro bootleg joint for more. I reckon we both were drunk then. Anyway I had been reading about hijackings and I suddenly decided to rob this man.

"We were staggering down Beale Street when the idea came to me. Without thinking further I pulled him around and hit him on the jaw with my fist. He went down like a log, it was awful cold. I stripped off his overcoat as he lay prone. It was badly worn but I took it just the same. Then I took his suit—it was gray and new and looked about my size. I picked up his hat and then took his shoes and his shirt.

"I left him lying there on the pavement and went home. I hid the clothes and got in bed. I think I must have become sober by then. I lay there and thought what I had done. I could not get

NAVARRO COUNTY VOTERS LEGALIZE SALE OF 3.2 BEER

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO MEET THURSDAY OFFICIALLY CANVASS VOTE

With reports received from 44 of the 48 boxes in Navarro county, the proponents of the legalization of the sale of 3.2 beer were still maintaining a lead of approximately 700 votes, which was piled up in the early returns Saturday night. Voting strength of the four boxes unreported were insufficient to change the final result to any marked degree. The totals showed 2150 votes for the legalization of the sales, and 1463 opposed.

One application for a retail beer dealer's license was received by County Judge C. E. McWilliams early Monday morning and several others were anticipated during the day, as several inquiries had been made concerning the proper procedure. The judge stated that Saturday would be the earliest possible date for the legal sale of the beverage, since the statute stated that the applications must be filed not less than five days nor more than ten days before the license was granted.

Canvass Vote Thursday.

The Navarro county commissioner's court will convene Thursday morning to formally canvass the returns of the election, and enter the order declaring the result of the election. The commissioners will also fix the license fee at that time and it was intimated Monday that the full statutory limit would be assessed. Re-

EIGHTY OTHERS ARE BURNED AND INJURED IN TRANSIENT BUREAU

LYNCHBURG FEDERAL RELIEF STRUCTURE SCENE OF HORROR EARLY TODAY

LYNCHBURG, Va., Mar. 24.—(AP)—The lives of fourteen persons were snuffed out and at least eighty others were injured and burned many seriously, when grease boiling over on a hot stove turned the federal transient bureau into a blazing inferno early today.

It was a scene of horror for the hundred odd others who escaped with their lives into the frigid atmosphere of a March dawn on snow covered streets, many only scantily clad.

The brick walls of the building, two stories in front and three in the rear, were left standing but the building itself was gutted, the floors on which about 190 men had been sleeping falling in within a short time. The structure had been used as a furniture and a women's wear shop prior to conversion for use as a place to take care of transients under the federal emergency relief administration.

The bodies, some of them charred apparently beyond hope of recognition were carried to Lynchburg undertaking establishments while the injured were carried to two hospitals in every available ambulance, hearse, truck and private car.

Many Seriously Burned.

One hospital where seventy patients had been admitted reported that possibly one-third of them were seriously burned, although the full extent of the injuries had not been determined several hours after the tragedy.

Seventy of the victims, approximately half of them white and the rest negroes, were taken to Lynchburg hospital in every conveyance available and fourteen negroes were carried to Virginia Baptist Hospital. Power facilities were cut off at Memorial Hospital by the fire and this institution was unable to help in the emergency treatment.

Grease boiling over on a hot stove was blamed for the fire—the worst remembered in Lynchburg's history. William Rash, the cook, said he had begun preparing breakfast for the estimated 200 occupants of the building when the grease boiled over on the stove and quickly set fire to the building.

Grease Ignited.

Rash said the grease from which he was to have made gravy was in a five-gallon kettle. It blazed up upon touching the hot surface of the stove. Immediately the kettle was in a blaze and the fire, shooting upward, ignited the wooden ceiling.

The cook said he grabbed a bucket of water and dashed it on the blaze. This did no good. He then emptied two fire extinguishers without effect.

Meanwhile Rash's assistant, C. H. Fizer and the night watchman, James Webb turned in the alarm.

Two stories above the fire, sleeping in cots only a few feet apart, lay two hundred men—the white transients in one section of the double building and the negroes in the part nearest Twelfth street. At that time the fire was making headway in the basement.

At the first call of "fire" the men became panic stricken. A high board wall surrounded the windows of their sleeping quarters and the men began tearing this down to leap into the street. Some dived to the street, fifteen feet below. Others clung to the window sills and dropped.

Injured in Jumping.

Policemen reported seeing some of the men clinging to trolley wires before they fell. All those who jumped were badly hurt. Many had broken legs and arms in addition to burns they had sustained.

The fire spread with tremendous speed. Eating through the wooden floors it continued to the top of the building before firemen could get it under control. The firemen said that within ten minutes after trucks arrived floors at the rear of the building collapsed.

A fire door separating the white and negro sections was not closed, it was said. If the door had been shut, the fire probably would not have spread to that part of the building.

Several of the bodies were found in the negro apartment.

The fire cast a lurid glare on the snow which covered the city and the bitter weather added to the suffering of the persons who were forced to flee from the building or their lives. Meanwhile would-be rescuers, in automobiles and on foot hurried to the scene.

Cared For Homeless.

The Lynchburg bureau was one of several camps set up throughout the state to care for homeless persons. It was administered as a federal emergency relief measure.

Patrolman Allen was on duty at Twelfth and Main streets when the fire broke out. He heard the shattering of glass and saw smoke spouting from the windows and turned in an alarm. Then he said he saw men jumping in to the street.

At the same time men were jumping from the back of the building into a concrete areaway at the rear of the new City market.

Allen telephoned for ambulances and borrowed trucks from a nearby bakery to take the men to hospitals.

Most of the men had on little or no clothing. Over one hundred were herded into the Salvation Army Citadel across the street and clothing was provided there.

Made Way Down Stairway.

All of these men made their way down the narrow stairway of the smoke filled building to the street. Some had slight injuries.

Adjutant L. N. Phelps provided breakfast for the half dozen men, many of whom had been trampling about barefooted in the snow covered streets.

Those who reached the scene first said the horror was unimaginable. Men lay groaning and writhing and the snow was blood stained.

As soon as firemen could enter the building they began bringing out bodies.

Night Superintendent C. F. Anderson of the transient bureau said James Webb woke him and he was able to save the records. The roster showed that 190 men were in the building, 83 whites and 107 negroes. They were from all parts of the United States.

He believed that by checking his records against the men injured the dead could be identified.

GOVERNOR FERGUSON ISSUES WARNING "YOUNG DEBAUCHERS" IN GRANTING FATHER PARDON

AUSTIN, March 23.—(AP)—Texas' woman governor, Miriam A. Ferguson, today gave a warning to what she termed "young debauchers of womanhood" in a proclamation granting a complete pardon to J. R. Readhimer, 60, convicted of murder without malice in the death of Stokes Campbell at Floydada.

Campbell allegedly was the father of a child born to Readhimer's daughter and had refused to marry her. Readhimer was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

"Would his pardon suppress crime declared to be one of the objects of the law?" Governor Ferguson wrote. "Maybe it will. It will at least be a grave warning to these young debauchers of womanhood who run around this country seeking whom they may ruin with no attempt to keep their passion within bounds.

"We may just as well face the facts. We all believe in the letter of the law but human nature has its limitations and as long as young men ruin young girls in this country and refuse to protect their name from passionate disgrace, just so long will the courts of this country be full of unfortunate conditions with which I am here confronted."

Governor Ferguson stated she was not restrained "by judicial statutes or findings of the jury" and that she was constrained "to take a broader view of the record facts demand it to relieve against in criminal cases, and if equitable punishment rendered in the courts."

"Applying the law of punishment may I not ask what reformation could come from the defendant having to serve this sentence?" the proclamation read. "If he lives a thousand years he would probably never commit another offense like this because his youngest daughter has been ruined and no reform is possible because this defendant is now in old age and punishment in the penitentiary means but little to him, personally, but the support of his family if he had to go would but add to the humiliation which it now suffers."

the sight of that man as I had left him out of my eyes. I did not go to sleep. I had committed a crime and I dared not go back. I thought someone must have found him and I would be arrested if I went back. I just lay there, terror stricken, all night. At dawn I crept out of bed and got the man's clothes. I put them all in the stove and burned them.

"That day I learned that the man had been found—and that he had died of exposure—had frozen to death there on the pavement in his underwear. His name began with a 'C' but I do not remember it now, though I can never forget his face.

"Since then nothing has been the same. Every night during those long five years and more in my dreams I have seen that man lying as I left him. I have [illegible] slept in over five years without dreaming."

While Memphis officers checked his story, he was held in a cell here.

FORMER GOVERNOR NAMED TO REPRESENT DEMOCRATS OF TEXAS

ONLY TWO OPPOSED WHEN FERGUSON NOMINATED FOR NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

By R. W. BARRY
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

HOUSTON, March 24.—(AP)—Former Gov. James E. Fergson, probably Texas' most picturesque politician and husband of the incumbent chief executive, today was recommended by the state democratic executive committee to be the state's representative in the national party council.

The colorful former governor, who was impeached and removed from office during his second term in 1917, was chosen by a viva voce vote. There were two "noes." W. I. Hooks of Itasca and Summers Norman of Jacksonille, of the 31 members representing the senatorial districts, were against the selection.

The former governor's wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, now serving her second term, after an interim as governor, was present when this latest honor was bestowed on her husband, now in the evening of a hectic life.

The committeemen and spectators cheered the silver-haired veteran of many campaigns as he came to the rostrum to acknowledge the compliment given him.

He spoke briefly, telling a short story about a man who had proposed to 29 women before the 30th accepted him.

"Don't Hate Nobody."

"He was astounded when he finally got an aceptance," said "Governor Jim," as every one knows him. "He did not know what to say, but finally mumbled, 'I don't hate nobody,' That's the way I feel now.

"I hope I have strength and courage enough to make myself worthy of this honor. I feel that the national government is passing the most eventful milestone in its history. We need unity of thought. There should be no division in our duty to uphold democratic principles and the hands of the greatest democratic president the world ever has known."

Ferguson would succeed Jed C. Adams of Dallas, who resigned to take a federal appointment.

Luther M. Bickett of San Antonio presented Ferguson's name. He called him the "noblest Roman of them all." There were many seconding speeches, the first one by Harold Knop of Waco, who said he regarded Ferguson the "greatent Texan" since Sam Houston.

Sulak Resigns.

L. J. Sulak, committeeman from Le Grange, who recently was put on the board of regents of the University of Texas by Mrs. Ferguson, presented his resignation after he voted for Ferguson.

"Holding a state appointment, I know I have no place on the executive committee," he said, "but I purpose put off resigning until I could cast my vote for Jim Ferguson for national committeeman."

S. W. Gollatt of La Grange was named to succed him.

Maury Hughes, of Dallas, chairman of the committee, also presented his resignation, having entered the race for governor. Among the chief six opponents of Hughes is C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, whom the Fergusons are advocating. J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs was elected to secceed Hughes.

Rejects Two Proposals.

The committe rejected two proposals submitted by Hughes, one to give women equal representation on the committee, that is have a woman and a man from each senatorial district with each entitled to a half vote, and the other to place on the July primary ballot the question whether the state constitution prohibtion section should be repealed.

The legislature had adopted a resolution petitioning the committee to submit the prohibition proposition to the electorate so it could be guided by that expression whether to submit a constitutional amendment when it meets next January.

A proposal to alter the constitution only can be submitted by the legislature to the electorate at a regular session. The state's stringent prohibition law was amended by a popular vote to permit the sale of beverage of not more than 3.2 per cent alcoholic content last fall.

Hussion Vice Chairman.

Ed Hussion of Houston, secretary of the committee, was chosen vice-chairman to succeed Brim, who held that place.

John B. Howard of El Paso was nomed committeeman from the 29th district to succeed Charles Davis of El Paso, resigned.

Resolutions expressing appreciation for the services of Adams and Hughes as national committeeman and state chairman respectively were drafted by a committee headed by Rice Maxey of Sherman and adopted without discussion.

The Adams resolution cited his 'loyalty' and service" to the party in his ten years on the national committee.

The resolution to Hughes stated he had been active in the service of the party and had been "eminently fair and just in his rulings."

Maxey also took occasion to pay a tribute to Hussion, promoted frm secretary to vice chairman He said he "never knew a secretary that was more efficient than Ed Hussion."

HOUSTON, March 24.—(AP)—The Texas Democratic executive committee met today to recommend to the national group a national committeeman to succeed Jed C. Adams of Dallas, who resigned.

James E. Ferguson, husband of the governor, had designed as chairman of the state committee and his successor was to be chosen. Other problems of the party were to be considered.

Twenty-nine of the 31 members of the committee were present.

There were four proxies, one absentee and one vacancy. Ewall Nalle, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's son-in-law, and his brother, Geo. S. Nalle, both of Austin, held proxies.

Tom Ferguson of Burnet was elected to the vacancy left by the resignation of John L. Brunner of Taylor, recently appointed postmaster there. Ferguson is not related to the governor.

Beeman Stong of Beaumont held the proxy of Ras Young of Longview. John Henry Kirby of Houston represented R. E. Underwood of Amarillo.

Women Members.

The committee voted to let Hughes submit the propositions whether women should have equal representation with men on the committee and whether the position of repeal of the prohibition section of the state constitution should be submitted to the electorate for an expression in the July primary. However, before the matter can be definitely disposed of the legislature must submit the proposition formally to a vote.

R. J. Edwards of Denton presented a resolution proposing equal representation of women on the committee.

Harold Knop of Waco spoke against the resolution. He said the statutes would not permit the change.

"It merely is a spring board for a candidate for governor," he said.

John Davis of Dallas said it was a matter for the state convention next September to choose a committee and that women were eligible to membership. He said the legislature could change the statute to provide for a woman and a man from each senatorial district to comprise the committee.

L. E. Stiernberg of Harlingen offered a substitute that the legislature be petitioned to amend the statute to give women equal represenation.

The substitute resolution was carried and the whole proposal as altered then, was voted down 22 to 8.

The committee then took up the matter of placing the question of repeal of prohibition as the July ballots. The legislature had passed a resolution asking for an expression so it could be guided about the proposal of submitting a constitutional amendment.

J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs said the committee was without authority to place the question on the ballots.

Brim's point of order was overruled and he appealed from the ruling. The vote was 15 to 15, and Hughes voted to sustain his own ruling.

DOOR SLAMMED SHUT TO VAST CAPITAL RESOURCES OF U. S. AGAINST ALL DEBT DEFAULTERS

By WILLIAM L. BEALE.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP)—The door to America's vast capital resources was slammed shut today to virtually every major European government.

An administration ruling announced by Secretary Morgenthau made effective in advance the legislation now pending in congress to prohibit new advances of American money to foreign debtor nations that are wholly or partially in default.

Explaining that this bill by Senator Johnson (R-Calif) already has passed the senate and is expected to pass the house, Morgenthau said it had the administration's support.

"It would be contrary to administration sentiment and the apparent sentiment of congress to approve such loans," he said.

France provided the issue on which the ruling was made. New York banks were invited to participate in a 100,000,000 Guilder Dutch Syndicate loan to the French treasury.

"France, I have observed, is among the defaulters," Morgenthau said when asked why Washington had said "no" to New York bankers.

The secretary did not explain whether his ruling would apply to countries making token payments, but it would if the strict letter of the Johnson bill is applied.

Such a policy would put in the shut-out group such war debtors as Great Britain, Belgium, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Greece and others. Only Finland among the war debtors would be eligible for an American loan. Finland is up-to-date on her payments.

CULLEN F. THOMAS NAMED CHAIRMAN OF CENTENNIAL BODY

AUSTIN, March 24.—(AP)—Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas was elected temporary chairman of the Texas Centennial commission at an unofficial organization meeting today.

Thomas was nominated by former Gov. Pat M. Neff.

For years Thomas has been a leader in the Centennial movement and has advocated a wide scale observance in 1936 of the 100th anniversary of Texas independence. He was instrumental in obtaining passage by the legislature of a law establishing the commission and appropriating $100,000 to pay preliminary expenses. Today's session was unofficial because the law will not become operative until May 29.

Thomas replied sharply to criticism of a provision of the law which provides for location of the Centennial in the city offering the largest financial inducement. The criticism was made in a telegram from H. H. Ochs of San Antonio. The provision wa stermed "selling of the Centennial to the highest bidder."

"That is not an auction of patriotism," Thomas said. "You cant build an exposition on wind. You need money and still more money as those of us who have been buttonholing legislators know. We got $100,000 but they told us to go out and get what more we need."

Thomas emphasized importance of speedily disposing of preliminaries.

"We haven't a day or an hour to lose," he said. "We should have started two years ago but couldn't because of the financial condition of the country."

The larger cities, Thomas reported, already are considering ways and means of making a bid for the Centennial.

Eighteen of the 33 members of the commission attended. The commissioners were guests of the chamber of commerce at luncheon.

HEIDINGSFELDER IS CONVICTED CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

HOUSTON ATTORNEY HAD CLAIMED HE WAS ROBBED OF MONEY OF CLIENT

GEORGETOWN, March 24.—(AP)—Charles E. Heidingsfelder, Sr., Houston attorney who told police he was robbed on Christmas day of $34,500 belonging to a client, today was convicted of embezzlement of the money and assessed the maximum sentence of 10 years' imprisonment.

The 61-year-old defendant, who had reiterated that he was innocent in one of the concluding arguments to the jury last night, offered no comment on the verdict. His brother and law partner, Arthur Heidingsfelder, said the defense would seek a new trial and, failing to obtain that, would appeal.

Heidingsfelder was alleged to have taken $34,500 from Mrs. Adele Pipkin of New York, divorced wife of Jean Pipkin, Beaumont ranchman. The Pipkins were married in the Heidingsfelder home 18 years ago and the two families had been close friends. The veteran attorney represented Mrs. Pipkin in the divorce suit, and the $34,500 was the major part of the settlement from Pipkin.

The jury was out only about 12 hours and had deliberated but a small portion of that time. The jurors retired last night shortly after receiving the case.

The first trial here last month ended in a hung jury, with eight of the jurors for conviction and four for acquittal. Heidingsfelder testified for more than a day during the previous hearing but did not take the stand this time.

In his dramatic 45-minute argument last night, Heidingsfelder asked the jury to "send me home to my wife."

"God knows I am innocent," he cried. Several times he wept.

"You heard Mrs. Pipkin testify she asked me for her money and didn't get it," the gray haired lawyer said. "She was right. She didn't get it. I was robbed."

Claimed Was Robbed.

Heidingsfelder claimed that he drew the money from a Houston bank on the Saturday before the Christmas holidays, intending to leave with it for New York before the banks opened after Christmas. He said that a stranger lured him to his Houston offices on Christmas day. While he was in his offices, an armed man entered, made him open the safe containing the 345 one hundred dollar bills, then disappeared with the money after forcing him to drink from a bottle until he lost consciousness, he said.

Mrs. Pipkin testified that she instructed her trusted attorney and friend to send the money to her in New York exchange drafts, not to bring it in cash.

Since the previous trial here, Heidingsfelder has been indicted on a charge of embezzling approximately $2700 from another client, Mrs. Hettie Alexander, Houston widow. His trial on this case had been set for next month.

The state introduced testimony at this week's hearing intended to show that since the former trial the lawyer had been paying debts in Houston with $100 bills.

ROOSEVELT REFUSES TAKE PART IN ANY LOCAL PARTY ROWS

SENATOR CONNALLY SAYS IS CONTENT LET TEXAS PEOPLE BE JUDGE

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—The White House gave formal notice today that President Roosevelt is adhering strictly to a hands off policy in local political party contests.

By coincidence, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) at the time was telling reporters—after a conference with President Roosevelt—that he had "no desire to involve the president in local or state politics and am perfectly content for the people of Texas to pass judgment on my services in the senate."

He referred to his campaign for renomination in which he is opposed by Representative Bailey (D-Texas).

A memorandum given out at the White House read:

"In answer to newspaper reports that the anti-Curry fight in New York City would be discussed with the president by Postmaster General Farley, it was difinitely stated today at the White House that the president will take no part whatever in such discussion nor will he in any way allow himself to be drawn into the political controversy between Curry and anti-Curry factions.

"Press reports suggesting that Mr. Farley would outline the situation to President Roosevelt and discuss with him the part the national administration should take in the anti-Curry movement were categorically denied.

"It was emphasized that the president will strictly adhere to this 'hands-off' policy when and wherever attempts are made to involve him in local political party contests."

As to the Texas situation, Conally said he would announce formally for re-election later in the day.

His complete statement follow[illegible]

"I conferred with the preside[illegible] on several matters.

"I have no desire to involve th[illegible] president in local or state politics and am perfectly content for the people of Texas to pass judgment on my services in the senate.

"Were the matter one to be decided by President Roosevelt I should likewise be entirely content and would have no fear of the outcome."

REVIVAL OF LOCAL FLYING INTEREST IS BEING PLANNED

Announcement was made Saturday of the leasing of the old municipal airport for an indefinite period by its present owner, W. C. Stroube, to H. James Cole, veteran war flyer, and formerly a vice president of the Tri-State Airways of Memphis, Tenn. Mr. Cole hopes to revive interest in aviation in Corsicana through a number of activities in the near future and will be the local agent for Stinson, Aeronca and Fleet planes.

According to Mr. Cole, he will open a chain of flying schools for the American Aircraft Industries, and Corsicana will be headquarters. Agents will be located in the principal cities of the United States, and students will be sent here for their instruction and tests.

Arrangements are being made, Mr. Cole said, with Bowen Airlines and the American Airways, to book passage in Corsicana for any point served by those lines in the United States, and to provide air transportation for Corsicana people to the nearest points where the line planes may be boarded. An aircraft brokerage and loan association and also a repair and rebuilding shop will be located in the local hangar.

A number of improvements are planned for the field and hangar, and a formal opening of the airport under its new management is planned in the form of an "air derby" within the next few weeks, Mr. Cole said.

NEW DIRECT LOANS PLAN FOR INDUSTRY OFFERED BY GLASS

By NATHAN ROBERTSON

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP)—Legislation to allow the federal reserve system to make direct five-year loans to industry was under draft today by Senator Glass (D-Va).

The former treasury secretary, a father of the federal reserve system, proposes to substitute his plan for two other proposals to extend direct government credit. One came from President Roosevelt; the other from the RFC.

Glass started drafting the bill after a long conference with Mr. Roosevelt last Thursday. At the white house the Virginian expressed strong opposition to the plan submitted by the chief executive for creation of a new system of 12 credit banks under the federal reserve system.

The new plan was understood to have strong backing within the senate banking committee as a substitute for the private loan proposals of the reserve board and the Reconstruction corporation.

Members of the committee believed also that the substitution of the Glass plan would be thoroughly satisfactory to the president.

The Glass bill would permit federal reserve banks to make loans to industry under the same terms it was proposed they should be extended through the 12 credit banks. They would be made direct by the reserve banks, however, and would come out of funds of the reserve system, rather than the treasury.

Dallas law enforcement officials recently conferred with local authorities on the proposed radio net, and were promised every cooperation.

HOPKINS STATES RURAL RELIEF WORK WILL BE CONTINUED

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Assurance that federal work relief would be provided in rural areas while the new administration program was being worked out was given today by Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator.

At the same time, he outlined to reporters six types of work that may be undertaken in cities.

Jacob Baker, an assistant administrator, meanwhile, opened a conference with officals, labor leaders and others on demolition of slums and other undesirable housing.

Hopkins said the rural program starting April 1 in towns of less than 5,000 population and the open country, would aim at placing families on plots of ground where they could sustain themselves.

Hopkins also directed state administrators to prepare not later than April 10 a plan for further carryng out ths program. He asked reports on the proposed method of obtaining houses and land for displaced farmers; arrangement for garden and feed crop plots for destitute farmers who have obtained houses; proposed methods of furnishing cows, chickens and pigs; types of projects to provide supplementary income; types of projects to provide income for destitute persons living within towns who are unable to obtain land or sufficient employment to meet their needs, and an outline of the organization and administration necessary to put the program into effect.

He informed the state administrations that where work is given the prevailing wage must be paid but that it must not be less than 30 cents an hour. Working hours shall not be more than 24 a week or less than 54 a month.

He also informed the administrators any person having available land who did not plant a home garden should not receive any relief.

In the cities Hopkins suggested 3 per cent of the workers be employed on planning projects, 30 per cent on improvements to public property, 15 per cent on housing, 15 per cent on production and distribution of goods needed by the unemployed, 7 per cent on public welfare, health and recreation service, and 10 per cent on emergency activities in public education, the arts and research. The remaining 20 per cent, he said, would provide leeway for greater emphasis on any of the fields if the state administrators wished.

WARNING

to EXPECTANT MOTHERS

If you have ever been a patient in any hospital, you are probably familiar with the advantages of a liquid laxative.

Doctors know the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit your individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have now learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without discomfort at the time, or after. Dr. Caldwell's long experience with mothers and babies, and his remarkable record of nearly three thousand births without the loss of one mother or child, should give anybody complete confidence in any prescription which he wrote!

But most important of all, a gentle liquid laxative does not cause bowel strain to the most delicate system, and this is of the utmost importance to expectant mothers and to every child.

Expectant mothers are urged to try gentle regulation of bowels with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a delightful tasting laxative of delightful action, made of fresh herbs, pure pepsin and active senna. Not a single mineral drug; nothing to cause strain, or irritate the kidneys.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved preparation and kept ready for use by all druggists.

NEW CONSTITUTION OF AUSTRIA MAKES FOR DICTATORSHIP

STRICTEST CENSORSHIP OF PRESS, THEATRE AND RADIO IS PROVIDED

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

Vienna, March 26.—(AP)—The Austrian government will take an iron grip on the press, theatre and radio through the new "corporative" constitution.

Plans for the strictest sort of censorship generally were outlined in a broad sketch of the constitution yesterday in the official gazette.

The words "Republic" and "democracy" will not appear in the new constitution.

Vast powers will be vested in the federal president, who while ruling through the constitution will have authority to change it when he thinks an emergency justifies.

Although it is not clear who will be president when the new constitution goes into effect, Wilhelm Miklas, elected president under the republican constitution, presumably will be relieved from his oath.

Four consulate councils will be formed, but they will serve only in an advisory capacity. All legislation must be initiated by the government.

The people will have an opportunity to express their opinion at the polls only when the government deems this advisable.

All higher institutions of learning and the faculties will be under the exclusive control of the federal government.

VETERANS BILL

bill may be sent to the White House.

Previously, the senate had added $118,000,000 in veterans' benefits to the measure, while the house had voted only $83,000,000. The senate now agrees to the lower figure.

Earlier the senate had joined the house in approving restoration of 10 per cent of the 15 per cent which had been taken from the pay envelope of government employes.

The long congressional dispute over veterans' benefits was virtually concluded when senate administration leaders agreed to the clarifying amendment offered by Senator Steiwer (R-Ore.)

Leaders of the move for the more liberal treatment of the veterans then agreed to accept the house benefits on the theory they were the best that could be obtained.

Their views were summarized by Steiwer in saying there was less chance of a veto of the bill in this form and more hope of passing it over a veto if one was forthcoming.

He conceded if the senate insisted upon its more liberal terms the bill could not be passed over a veto.

President Roosevelt had given notice that he would veto the measure if the higher senate figure senate figure was retained. His position on the house action has yet to be made known.

The Steiwer amendment, approved without a roll call, changes the house language to make certain it would not affect adversely certain combat cases in restoring to the rolls at 75 per cent of former benefits 29,000 veterans with presumptive service-connected disabilities.

Accepted By 48 to 39 Vote.

The house amendments were accepted by a vote of 48 to 39.

They provide for permanent restoration without review of the 29,000 World was veterans struck from the rolls by the economy act because they could not prove their disabilities were service-connected.

They would be given 75 per cent of former benefits as against the 100 per cent voted originally by the senate.

The amendments also restores to the rolls thousands of Spanish-American war veterans, their widows and orphans at 75 per cent of former pensions as against 90 per cent asked by the senate.

Later Senator Reed (R-Pa.) said he had voted to concur because "the best interests of the veterans" were served by that action.

Insistence upon the senate amendments, Reed said, "would have headed us straight into a vote, in fact, I'm told it has already been written placing it on the ground that the senate, by an inadvertent mistake, was giving benefits in the so-called misconduct cases."

Reed said the veterans own representatives in Washington were urging the vote he had cast.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) made a similar statement.

How They Voted.

The roll call on the house veterans provisions follows:

Republicans for—Couzens, Keyes, Reed, and Steiwer—total 4.

Grand total for 48.

Republicans against— Austin, Barbour, Borah, Capper, Carey, Cutting, Davis, Dickinson, Fess, Frazier, Gibson, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Herbert, Johnson, Kean, LaFollette, Norris, Patterson, Robinson, Ind.; Schall, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott, Whit, total 26.

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief Of Bureau. The Associated Press. Washington)

LESS will be heard from the administration left-wingers during the next few weeks. Word is going around quietly that public utterances provocative of controversy in congress are not in order now.

It appears the professorial "ideamen" in the Roosevelt camp have obtained about all the legislation they will get this session.

The stock exchange bill is being rewritten, the Tugwell pure food and drugs bill has been recast and then sidetracked, and many collateral proposals of the brain-trust are quite dead.

IF adjournment does not come before May 15 it will be because the situation on Capitol Hill has got entirely out of hand. The leaders' central idea is to keep dispute to a minimum, get the appropriations bills and a very few others passed, and send congress home.

That may not be easy, although most guesses are it will be accomplished somehow.

While the administration is refraining from tossing new controversies into the situation, the opposition will not be similarly quiet, having tasted victory in the St. Lawrence treaty and veterans' allowance roll calls.

Those Billions!

THE impression grows that Mr. Roosevelt will end the fiscal year, June 30, with a far smaller treasury deficit than the seven billions he forecast; but that may not mean quite what is indicated on the surface.

Upwards of five billions remain to be spent. The President is making his budget plans on a two-year basis, however; most of the emergency appropriations legally can be carried over to next year if unused.

Next fiscal year will see heavy spending, and the first real balance will be struck on June 30, 1935.

Around the postoffice department special responsibility for the airmail cancellations is attributed to Karl Crowley, the department's solicitor.

Crowley is a Fort Worth, Texas, lawyer, once a member of the Tennessee legislature, delegate to two democratic national conventions. He probably will have more to say about the contracts later.

Administration officials, scanning the financial skies for a sign of loosening credit facilities, were encouraged in a small way by the PWA's recent bond auction.

Municipal obligations taken in by the government only a few weeks ago because there was no other market for them were sold at a profit.

Not Caught Napping

SOME fast foot-work led up to Henry Ford's announcement he had restored the $5-a-day minimum scale in his factories.

On March 12 the national automobile chamber of commerce, with which Ford hasn't been going along, met in Detroit and decided secretly to cut work hours in accord with the NRA plan.

The idea was to spring the announcement at the Washington NRA labor hearing March 14. But Ford heard about it, and came out with his $5-a-day news on March 13.

The chamber went into action and got out its own announcement, ahead of schedule, on the same day.

• • •

THE date of Postmaster General Farley's heralded resignation as democratic national chairman seems to be growing less and less definite.

One idea put forward among democratic politicians is this:

That he stay in until after the election. Then, if his friend and former assistant, the newly-appointed Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, should be defeated for reelection, O'Mahoney could be slipped into the chairmanship.

It is too early to forecast how that will turn out.

TELEPHONE

change from one board to the other, but several hours were spent Sunday morning in checking to see that all the lines were functioning properly. Several more days will be required to complete this job. The new switchboard is the latest piece of equipment that the telephone art has been able to devise, and replaces a board which has been doing service in Corsicana for the past 15 years. Fundamentally, calls are placed and dispatched in the customary method, and telephone users will not notice any difference in placing their calls, but the new equipment will give more reliable service through fewer interruptions.

The cut-over was under the direction of District Plant Chief T. VanderLaan, and was assisted by Wire Chief E. L. Klutts.

All available telephone employees and the installation crew were busily engaged Monday in dismantling and removing the old switchboard and terminal room equipment. The building's interior was remodeled to provide more room for the new equipment, and the terminal room and testboard equipment was moved to larger quarters on the first floor of the building.

Operation of the new board will be under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Harlee, experienced chief operator.

Prepare For Speedy Vote on Cotton Bill

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—Democratic leaders prepared today to run the Bankhead compulsory cotton control bill through a barrage of opposition toward a speedy senate vote on the measure.

They were backed by a limitation on debate to go into effect at 4 p. m. today. No definite predictions were being made as to when a vote might be reached. A move to set a time failed Saturday, although an agreement was put through to hold the debate to 15 minutes per man beginning late this afternoon.

Thunder-clouds of protest, that let loose rumblings Saturday when the senate first began debating the bill, threatened again. They came largely from Republican areas, but Democratic sentiment obviously was not unanimous behind the bill.

Majority leaders were still confident the measure would pass, however. The house approved it.

Attacks thus far directed at the bill have repeated to a large extent those made against it in the house. These center around charges of unconstitutionality and that it may set a precedent for regimentation of all farm crops.

The bill is designed to better cotton prices and reduce the surplus by limiting the coming season's crop to 10,000,000 bales and levying a 50 per cent of value tax on any production above quotas. Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) has announced an intention to ask that the tax be raised to 75 per cent, which the measure called for before it was amended in the house.

Meeting Freestone County Pecan Growers Held in Fairfield

FAIRFIELD, March 26.—(Spl.)—A county wide meeting of pecan enthusiasts was held in the district court room Friday, March 17, for the purpose of organizing an association. The meeting was opened by Judge J. G. Anderson, who gave a talk on Freestone county and her people. This was followed by a talk on pecans by W. B. Frederick. Arthur Germany a representative of the Texas Pecan Growers nursery, of Tyler, talked of the benefits to be derived by organizing. W. W. Steward of Steward's Mill made an interesting talk on his experience with pecans. This was followed by a talk on developing a 50-acre pecan orchard by J. R. Mackey, of Wortham. Then H. W. Koonce, of Fairfield, showed what he had accomplished by top working pecan trees with a demonstration of the results. He also made a short talk on producing apples, according to his experience, producing apples is more profitable but is not so permanent, as the life of the apple tree is not so long as the pecan tree by one hundred years or more.

Organization of an association was taken up and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. R. Mackey, of Wortham; vice-president, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, of Dew; secretary, Leslie Harding of Oakwood.

Much enthusiasm in pecans was evidenced by this meeting as practically every section of the county was represented. Another meeting will be held here March 30 th 8 p. m. A pecan specialist will be secured for this meeting.

NAVARRO COUNTY'S COLORFUL HISTORY IN MURAL PAINTING FRONT CORRIDOR HIGH SCHOOL

Navarro county's colorful history; its natural resources and modern development and progress in many aspects, are being delineated in a mural painting in the front corridor of the Corsicana high school, by Granville Bruce, prominent Texas artist, under the Public Works of Art Project, sponsored by the government in its recovery program. The mural, which will fill the entire space between the two auditorium doors, was begun last week, and is scheduled for completion in between six and eight weeks.

"No singular art project has created as much enthusiasm and art appreciation as the Public Works of Art Project, sponsored by the government, in a nationwide movement to assist the artist and give the public bargains in art," Mr. Bruce said when interviewed.

In Two Sections.

The mural is divided into two sections, a center arched panel inset, above the stone bench, between the two stone urns, and a decorative design covering nearly the entire wall-space around the arch, and between the doors.

In the center panel, an adventurous young surveyor is realistically shown leveling his musket to shoot an Indian chief, as he approaches with right hand raised as a sign of peace. But the older and more experienced pioneer rests his hand on the youth's shoulder, warning him not to shoot, as the Indian seemingly means no harm.

Covers Entire Wall.

The decorative design, covering nearly the entire wall space around the arch, depicts the modern resources and industries of Navarro county, including petroleum ,cotton and farming. The modern buildings in the background represent the courthouse, signifying progress in legislation; the school building, showing development in education; the bank building as an indication of progress in finance, and the church representing the development in religion.

The center panel has been sketched completely, and the coloring is practically finished. Mr. Bruce will begin sketching in the remainder of the mural this week.

Government Pays Artist.

Only the cost of materials used in the painting will be borne by the Corsicana public schools, as the artist is being paid by the government. The artist was selected by Dr. John S. Ankeney, regional director for Texas and Oklahoma. Dr. Ankeney inspected all the Corsicana school buildings, and was said to have been delighted with the opportunities that the high school offered for the type of paintings that the government was giving the schools. He was said to have taken a keen interest in the Corsicana project, and delayed sending an artist here until he could send one of the best mural artists available.

The project was secured for Corsicana through the efforts of W. P. McCammon, president of the board of education, and Harry C. Howard, secretary-manager of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Bruce was the artist who painted the mural in Sunset high school, Dallas, and who painted the "Century of Progress" mural in the Sanger Bros., showwindows, in Dallas, which has caused widespread favorable comment.

Frank Cheney Assists.

Frank Cheney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hood Cheney, who is a student artist, assisted Mr. Bruce in posing for the figures for the working sketch.

Mr. Bruce received his first lessons in art at the State Normal school of Milwaukee, and later spent two years at the Layton School of Art. He took life-drawing under Mr. Sinclaire and design and still-life from Miss Charlette Partridge, of the Chicago Art Institute. More study was given to life drawing under Renolds and Guther.

Mr. Bruce's most extensive training was taken from Hugo D. Pohl, of San Antonio, noted Texas artist, who has studied abroad for many years, and who is responsible for the famous mural painting for the International Harvester company, in Chicago. Mr. Bruce studied eight years under Mr. Pohl, and then spent more than a year in study of old Spanish missions in Texas, and some time in Mexico City studying Spanish and Mexican life.

Series Texas Subjects.

The artist has painted a series of Texas history subjects, for the University of Texas yearbook, and prepared a series of prehistoric animal paintings for the Texas Museum of Natural History.

Mr. Bruce explained his interest in mural paintings of the type he is painting here in these words: "Ever since I was a child, the romance of Texas history appealed to my imagination, and I decided to devote myself to it. The tremendous scope and variety of the history, together with the feeling of great spaciousness of the state are especially suited to the panoramic effect of mural painting."

OIL LEASING IS STILL VERY ACTIVE FREESTONE COUNTY

FAIRFIELD, March 26.—(Spl.)—Activity in oil leasing continues in Freestone county, it being reported large acreage is being taken north and west of Luna, joining Haley block. Leasing has been ing the west side of the Young-active northeast of Steward's Mill several large blocks being taken.

There is also leasing activity joining the Shell block east of Fairfield. Last week the county leased the "poor farm" property one-half mile south of Fairfield for $10 per acre.

Casing is on the road for the Clayton well on the Holley land near Keechi, about six miles south of the Daniel-Shell well. The Clayton is down about 5000 feet.

The Daniel-Shell well was spudded in Tuesday evening. 12 1-2 inch surface casing was set at 100 feet and the drill is waiting for cement to set.

PURDON CITIZENS HONORED CHAMPION CAGERS THURSDAY

By PAUL MOORE
Sun Sports Editor.

PURDON, March 23.—Purdon did herself proud here Thursday night when the members of the Purdon high school basketball teams, boys and girls, were honored at a well-appointed and enjoyable banquet served by the ladies of the community and the high school lassies. There were approximately 150 in attendance at the meeting held in the gymnasium where the triumphs of the athletes were written. Nothing was left undone to make this a gala affair, with one of the finest banquets of the year being served, and with an appropriate program presented.

Purdon is justly proud of those youngsters whose deeds had brought this little city considerable favorable publicity, and turned out to honor them in her own way. There was no long speeches made, but the lads and lassies knew that the citizens and visitors from other communities meant what they said and appreciated their efforts.

Rev. Thad E. Son, Methodist minister, pronounced the invocation and benediction.

C. C. Isbell, head of the Purdon schools, presided.

After the singing of America with Randolph Mitchell of Corsicana at the piano, Miss Margaret Sneed gave a toast to the athletes. Miss Jessie Mae Beasley rendered a reading. Misses Sneed and Beasley are members of the Purdon school faculty.

Mildred and Mattie Sue Carroll of Corsicana were presented in a tap dance number and Miss Ruth Waddill of Dawson, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ray, appeared in a vocal solo number.

Randolph Mitchell rendered several numbers, including a combination piano and tap dance feature.

Captains Spoke.

Short addresses dealing with the past seasons were given by Christine McCraw, captain of the girls team; Miss Udell Ferguson, coach of the girls; J. D. (Grandpa) Norton, captain of the boys; and Howard Wade, boys coach. The coaches complimented their charges for their conscientious work during the season and their splendid attitude of doing everything they could to win fairly and honorably. The community was complimented for its wholehearted support.

The Purdon boys did not lose a game during the past season on their home court. They won forty-seven of fifty-two games played, winning the Mildred invitation, Corsicana YMCA invitation, Navarro county interscholastic league tournaments and lost to Denton in regional competition at Denton. Denton was eliminated by Athens, state champions, in the semi-finals of the state tournament in Austin.

The boys scored 1,985 points during the season to 1,078 points for the opposition.

John Pierce Talked.

John A. Pierce, football and track coach at Corsicana high school, paid tribute to the athletes, coaches and citizenship of the community. He referred to several Purdon boys who had attended school in Corsicana since he had been coach, and spoke of the fine type of boys all had proven themselves. He spoke of the college career of Howard Wade, Purdon mentor, during his playing with the Southern Methodist University Mustangs. Pierce said Wade had proven himself to be a great coach as well as an athlete.

Turning his remarks to the boys, the Corsicana coach stressed the lessons learned in athletics as relates to future life and urged the boys to apply the same effort to win in life as they had in athletics.

Pierce told the boys that Corsicana and Navarro county were behind them when they won the county meet and when they won at Waco, they were representing not only Purdon and Navarro county, but the entire district.

The tables and appointments were attractively decorated in the school colors of red and white.

Dr. Elizabeth Smellage, Dallas, deputy Texas state superintendent of public instruction, was a visitor and complimented the school and community on its school work as well as in athletics.

The following menu was served:

Fruit Salad
Chicken Cranberry Sauce
Dressing Gravy
English Peas in Potato Nests.
Rolls
Ice Cream Cake
Tea Coffee

Delightful Review Of Popular Book Is Given Here Friday

Seventy-five representative women of the city and elsewhere, assembled in the auditorium of the Episcopal Parish House on Friday afternoon to hear Mrs. Roy Kirkpatrick of Ennis in a book review, given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the church.

Mrs. Mamie Brillhart, president of the Auxiliary welcomed the large number present and announced that the Auxiliary had planned a series of book reviews for the coming season. She then introduced Mrs. Kirkpatrick, who is a prominent teacher, club woman and home maker of Ennis, and stated that as Mrs. Kirkpatrick had given a review of "Anthony Adverse" by Hervey Allen, recently, in Ennis, with such success, that this book of the year, and a prize winner had been chosen by the Auxiliary for this occasion.

Held Her Audience.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick, who possesses a charming personality, held the audience spell bound with her interesting recital of the salient points in the story, which deals with the life story of Anthony Aderse.

She stated that Anthony Adverse does not recommend itself because it is a prize winner, the book of the year or one of the best books, but because it is a cross section of a life that has been lived fully—a life in search of a peace and happiness that it takes a long time to find.

The historical setting is that period of Napoeon's time—1775, and links the aristocracy of the 18th century with that the 19th. Born in France, the author takes his character over three continents and he finally dies near El Paso, Texas.

After telling the story in such an interesting manner, Mrs. Kirkpatrick analyzed the book, as it were. She spoke of the book having no plot, but a number of minor plots to hold one's interest for days. She also stated that there were enough characters to fill several books; and after summing up the life of Anthony, she mentioned the women characters that came into his life.

Book Is Approved.

In closing Mrs. Kirkpatrick characterized "Anthony Adverse" as one of the very good, the mostly true and the rather beautiful books of the year.

The auditorium was most attractive for the occasion, the stage being massed with palms and branches of pear and peach blossoms in jardineres, for color effect. On the piano a large plaque held golden forsythia and wild plum blossoms.

Among the many out-of-town visitors were noted Mrs. Dale Owen, Mrs. T. S. Daniel, Mrs. G. H. Sanders, Mrs. H. J. Newsom and Miss Mary Frances Weedon of Kerens, Mrs. Robert Montgomery of Palestine, Mrs. R. B. Watkin of Ennis and a number of teachers from the State and I.O.O.F. homes.

AUTO DISPUTE

of Pontiac, Mich., was handed to the president by spokesmen of the automobile workers as their nominee to represent labor on the three man mediation board. The motor car executives had several men in mind as their representative. Johnson also had several in mind to serve as the third or neutral member.

Decisions of this board shall be final, and it shall have access to all payrolls and union lists. On the basis of these it shall apportion the number of employe representatives in each plant—A. F. of L. local, company union or other union—in ratio to the number of men belonging to each.

The union lists need not be disclosed to the management except on order of the president himself, but unless they are union men cannot bring claims of discrimination.

Layoff Plan.

In laying off men, when the high production period ends, the companies are pledged to consider "human relationships" first—to protect the jobs of married men with families above all and then take seniority, individual skill and efficient service as guides.

Past that point, they may not lay off a greater proportion of men belonging to outside unions than of other employes.

This agreement was accepted by both sides with expressions of satisfaction.

The solution of the automobile deadlock lifted from the administration one of its greatest industrial worries. Had the strike occurred, officials feared, there would have been no stopping industrial discord from spreading to other fields in enough volume to nullify much of what has been done toward recovery.

Another twisted knot, however, was the railroad wage question, now in the hands of Joseph B. Eastman as arbitrator. He planned to talk to the employe spokesmen in an effort to alter their flat refusal to agree to the president's plea for a six month continuance of the present pay level.

Coal Industry.

The bituminous coal industry's wage and hour arrangements came up for review also, since they expire April 1 in the large Appalachian area. Mine operators of this territory and officials of the United Mine Workers were called together under NRA auspices.

The president prefaced the terms of settlement with a redefinition of section 7A of the industrial act, the collective bargaining clause.

In three points he said this clause means employes have the right to organize into a group or groups; that having done so they can choose representatives by free choice and these representatives must be received by the management in an effort to straighten out disputes and improve conditions; that discrimination for labor affiliaton "or for any other unfair or unjust reason is barred."

He made much of the rule for handling reduction of forces:

"It would be ideal if employment in all occupations could be more generally stabilized, but in the absence of that much desired situation, if we can establish a formula which gives weight to the human factors as well as the economic, social and organizational factors in relieving the hardship of seasonal layoff, we shall have accomplished a great deal."

NEW AND MODERN SWITCHBOARD IN SERVICE SUNDAY

Behind the scenes at the telephone office a new nerve center will spring into being at midnight tonight, as Corsicana's new switchboard, costing approximately $140,000 to install, is cut into service, according to R. R. Brown, district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

"The new Western Electric board is as modern a piece of equipment as the telephone art has been able to devise, and replaces a board which has been doing service in Corsicana for the past 15 years," Brown stated.

More Reliable.

"Although telephone users will not notice any difference in placing their calls, the new equipment will make for more reliable service through fewer interruptions," Brown said. "It is in line with the telephone company's policy of rendering a constantly improving service at the lowest possible cost."

Mr. Brown requested that telephone users refrain from placing "curiosity" calls during the next several days, as an unusual number of such calls would swamp the operators and make it difficult to provide adequate service to customers placing legitimate calls, some of which may be of an emergency nature.

11,000 Man Hours.

Installation of the new switchboard and auxiliary equipment has afforded more than 11,000 man hours of employment to a small group of workers who have been on the job over a period of one year. The work was spread out to afford continuous employment, a policy followed by the telephone company wherever possible.

No Interruption.

The immensity of the task can be gathered from the fact that the building had to be remodeled, plans carried out so that the old switchboard could be kept in service all the time the new one was being installed, and the cutover made without interrupting the service. Details include the soldering by hand of more than half a million connections. Telephone users who are in the habit of fastening wires together by the twisting method when working on their cars or aerials, will be surprised to know that the telephone company gave up this practice years ago in favor of soldering, in order that no loose connections bob up to impair the high quality of telephone service.

Miss Harllee in Charge.

Operation of the new board will be in charge of Miss Elizabeth Harllee, Corsicana's experienced chief operator, and the same force of operators will answer when you lift your receivers. Training in operating the new board has been given all operators during the past several weeks, and they have been looking forward to the cutover with considerable anticipation. The face of the new board is towards the windows which will mean better light and ventilation for the operators.

The cutover, which will be completed in a two-minute interval, and without service interruptions, is under the direction of District Plant Chief T. VanderLann, assisted by Wire Chief E. L. Klutts. Tomorrow the cutover will be history, so far as the public is concerned, but for these gentlemen there remains the task of getting the old switchboard removed. Prior to the cutover every line in town had to be checked in order to make sure that customers would be given uninterrupted service.

OVERWHELMING VOTE FOR MUSSOLINI WAS CAST ITALY SUNDAY

By ANDRUE BERDING
(Associated Press Foreign Staff).

ROME, March 26—(AP)—More than 10,000,000 voters registered their approval of Premier Mussolini and his Fascist regime in Sunday's elections.

With all returns in, only 15,265 contrary votes were recorded in the balloting on the 400 government-selected candidates—headed by Il Duce—for the 29th chamber of deputies.

Of 10,432,536 electors registered, 10,041,997 voted, a percentage of 96.25.

Favorable votes totaled 10,025,513 and 1,219 were disqualified. The percentage of favorable votes of the total number cast was 99.8.

There was no opposition list of candidates, but electors had the right to accept or reject the official selections.

Many provinces showed no contrary votes—such as Avellino, which cast 112,656 votes; Brindisi, 59,692, and Salerno with 127,304.

The province of Forli, Mussolini's old bailiwick, cast only three contrary votes in 105,585.

Official spokesmen described the balloting as a plebiscite to show the nations' faith in Mussolini and to ratify his policy in foreign as well as domestic affairs.

The election passed without incident. Not a fight was recorded anywhere in the kingdom.

District Highway Beautification Head Pleased With Plans

The following letter from Mrs. Wm. Bacon of Dallas, eighteenth district chairman of highway beautification, received recently by Mrs. J. M. Tullos, Navarro county chairman, will be of interest to a large percentage of the citizens of the city and county. The letter speaks for itself:

Dallas, Texas, March 1, 1934.

My Dear Mrs. Tullos:

I was thrilled at the potential strength of the group that you gathered together for your first meeting of the citizens' committee for highway beautification. With such outstanding men and women standing shoulder to shoulder with you, the success of your part of the highway beautification program is assured.

Will you not, through your county demonstration agent and press, get in touch with similar groups in each of the towns in your county and extend to them a cordial invitation to be present at our regular monthly meeting, Monday, April 2, at the Dallas Athletic club at 2:30 p. m., and at the same time work out with your chamber of commerce a proration plan so that each town will know exactly the highway and the part of the highway that is their problem—I believe most constructively minded people want to know definitely what is expected of them. "Many hands make work light." With a highway department eager to be helpful and a citizenship eager to create beauty we can even in the short time between now and the Centennial make our state "blossom as the rose" and prove our appreciation of the heritage left us by the courageous men and women who through hardships and danger looked with eyes of faith to a Texas made safe and beautiful.

Again expressing my pleasure at the manner in which your citizens, white and colored, are meeting this opportunity to invest some of their time and effort in creating permanent beauty for their town and state, I am

Sincerely,
E. BACON.

CORSICANA, TEX., MAR. 27, 1934

SEASON OF SPENDING

The Easter season is a season of spending no less than Christmas. Clothing sales for the two weeks before Easter are customarily the heaviest of the year. Whoever has the wherewithal bedecks himself with new raiment. And if he has not the wherewithal, his wife does it anyway.

But the usual pre-Easter spurt does not alone account for the steady rise in business activity of all kinds. Freight car loadings, compared to a year ago, are up 20 per cent and rising weekly. And certainly not every male in the land is providing himself with a new armored vest. Steel mill output, however, has risen to 51 per cent of capacity.

The signs are unmistakable. Recovery is under way and is gaining momentum week by week.

PROFITS AND WAR

It has become a habit with pacifists of a certain type to blame war on munitions manufacturers.

This was the chief argument used by Senator Borah in his attack on the naval program. Munitions makers, the Idaho senator asserted, were largely if not chiefly responsible for the Word war, and still are active in efforts to promote a new conflict.

Henry Ford indorses Borah's views and declares that as long as there is "greed for profit" on the part of the munitions manufacturers wars will continue.

Those who adopt this line of argument apparently forget that other branches of industry profit from wars. Automobile maufacturers are no exception. Yet, we have not heard them charged with promoting international conflicts. The makers of clothing, the producers of food and numerous other manufacturers and distributors also profit—hugely. If one interest that makes money out of war is to be blamed for wars, why not blame all?

The weakness of this argument is apparent.

There were wars when bows and arrows were the only weapons, and there probably will be wars when all the present recognized weapons of war have been superceded by more effective ones.

Not until human nature undergoes a radical change will war disappear.

REGULATION

Congress has before it a plan for regulation of interstate bus and truck traffic by the Interstate Commerce Commission, a form of regulation that will come eventually if not during this session. And yet the case made out argues not for bus and truck regulation but for less regulation of the railroads.

Regulation has neither been asked nor recommended for the protection or advantage of the shipper or consumer, but for the protection of the railroads, which have been faring poorly in competition with these younger and less organized carriers. The chief argument seems to be that the railroads are losing business because they are under government restraint while the other carriers are not.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was created for the purpose of guaranteeing shipper, consumer and passenger fair rates and to end cutthroat and unfair competition among the roads. In the case of the buses and trucks their rates are lower than railroad rates. The only way regulation of buses and trucks could benefit the railroad business would be by jacking up the rates of the former, which would be an unnecessary tax upon both shipper and consumer.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1932, Edgar A. Guest.)

The Other Fellow's Hat.

It's little I care for the clothes man may wear.
He may dress as he will and I'll poison no barb
Or slight him or sneer, when I see him draw near.
I'll respect any man be whatever his garb.

This is truth he soon learns who will read Bobbie Burns;
A man is a man spite of trousers and coat.
And repeat it I will, a man's a man still
Though he hasn't a muffler to wrap round his throat.

The clothes a man wears are his personal affairs,
Unless, as it happened to me yesterday,
Some dumbell or crook takes my hat from the hook
And leaves me his old one and hurries away.
With a new hat and fine I had gone in to dine,
And proud and contented I sat in my chair,
But some fellow unknown, took my hat for his own,
And left a fedora a tramp wouldn't wear.

So I say for 'a that, when it comes to a hat
I care not a fig for what Bobbie Burns said:
Who takes mine from me, though mistaken he be,
Should leave one I'm willing to put on my head.

THE BONUS VOTE.

Among congressmen who voted for the bonus measure are many who probably would not go all the way in challenging the president's leadership. They realize that popular sentiment is with Mr. Roosevelt in his opposition to this raid on the public treasury in the midst of recovery efforts that are putting a tremendous strain upon the country's finances. They have given the veterans one vote. They could say to the ex-soldiers they felt it would not be wise to carry their rebellion to extreme lengths in view of the unsettled conditions, and hope in this way to retain the good will of the former soldiers.

Enactment of the bonus bill would be severe blow to recovery. This is generally recognized by all who have given the matter unprejudiced thought. The president, in his opposition to the measure, has taken a popular stand. Even should congress override his promised veto the soundness of his position will not have been weakened.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt can prevent enactment of the bill is by no means clear. That he will not back down, though, or retreat will be the hope of all who are able to place public welfare first in the consideration of public questions.

Full responsbility for the consequences, in the event the bill is passed, should be permitted to rest upon congress.

PISCATORIAL PROBLEMS

For the federal commission of fisheries and for all state fish conservation agencies life is one long dilemma. They must conserve the fisheries as a great natural resource and at the same time do their best to promote an industry founded on their exploitation and serving a hundred million hungry people, whom certain agencies are trying to make more fish-minded, and to promote a sport which makes fish conservation possible in most states.

One way to reconcile these two conflicting objectives is to encourage in the industry and the sportsman a spirit of enlightened self-interest. That takes time as it did in forest conservation; it was years before the bureau could bring the competing canners of Alaska into agreement on necessary conservation measures. But without such measures the industry itself may be doomed.

Because of land deficiencies of elements important to the health of man and his domestic animals, and the losses. it is desirable that man draw as fully as practicable on the resources of the seas, lakes and streams. To that proposition every piscator will say amen.

TRADE WAR TOUCHES UNITED STATES

Trade wars, like those of violence, sometimes affect nations not directly involved in the controversy.

The present dispute between France and Great Britain, in which each is cutting down its purchases from the other, threatens to have this effect, with the United States being a victim.

One of the factors figuring as a cause in the Anglo-French commercial rift was the contention by Great Britain that France had given the United States certain concessions which had not been granted Britain. The French came back with the assertion that these concessions did not represent special treatment accorded the United States but were in return for similar concessions made by the latter.

To support this argument, France is reported recently to have informed the United States that new concessions of a more substantial kind will have to be given her if her concessions to this country are to be continued. The present commercial agreement with the United States is effective only until April 1.

To refuse to make the desired concessions might cause the United States to lose important French trade, while to make them might place this country in the position of taking sides with France in its trade war with Britain. Neither result is desirable from the American standpoint.

RAINFALL DURING WEEKEND IS PLACED AT 2.62 INCHES

Rain fell slowly and almost continuously over Navarro county Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday. The rain will be of untold benefit to the farmers and truck growers of the county. Moisture will be furnished to bring up the corn that had been planted during the past week or ten days and land will be in excellent condition ofr further preparation for cotton planting.

Grains and gardens will be kept growing and moisture furnished for further planting of truck and garden vegetables.

The rain fell so slowly that land was not washed and the soil took up the needed moisture. All of the smaller creeks and branches in the county were filled to overflowing and the larger creeks are expected to overflow as a result of the rains. Sunday afternoon Chambers Creek was almost bank full and rising. Richland creek was also rising.

No wind accompanied the rain and no damage of any kind has been reported. Streets in the city of Corsicana were flooded Sunday but not enough to hamper traffic.

The rainfall here for the 48-hour period was 2.62 inches, and reports indicate a like amount of all sections of the county.

Former Corsicanan Subject Of Article In Telephone News

An article of especial interest to Corsicana friends of Mr. M. P. Caldwell and family, former residents of this city, appeared in the March 13 issue of the Southwestern Telephone News.

It is stated that Mr. Caldwell who has been division commercial superintendent for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., had retired after 40 years of service with the company.

He began his term of service as a boy operator in Corsicana in 1893, just seven years after the telephone was invented. He moved to Fort Worth in 1912 as assistant division superintendent, from which position he was promoted to his present office in 1916.

Mr. Caldwell has been a resident of Fort Worth the past 22 years. He is a member of the Julian Field Masonic Lodge, 908; has 35 years membership in the Odd Fellows Lodge; is a Rotarian; a member of the Fort Worth club, and of Glen Gardens Country club.

PURSLEY DEFEATED PICKET IN INITIAL GAME OF BASEBALL

PURSLEY, March 26.—(Spl.)—Behind the no-hit pitching of Chester Kirk for three innings, Pursley hung a 11-2 defeat on Pickett in an exhibition game here Friday afternoon. The game was featured by the hitting of varied intensity of Brown, of Pursley, who in four times at bat collected a double, a triple and a home-run.

V. Tanner, of Pickett, was the fielding-sensation of the day, and was reported to have made one of the most beautiful catches ever seen here. In pitching his mates to a victory, Kirk worked three innings, and fanned nine men and walked one. As is evidenced by the small number of errors of each team, the fielding was above the average.

Pursley's victory came as a result of 10 hits off G. Tanner and Henry, with Brown collecting three, and scoring four runs. Kirk and Roberts and Burns, of Pursley limited Pickett to four safe clouts.

This was the first baseball game of the season reported.

RECORDS REVEAL INTERESTING FACTS CONCERNING TAXES PAST, PRESENT IN NAVARRO COUNTY

Total county tax collected in Navarro county in 1846 amounted to 52 cents. Total county tax in 1933 (depression and all), $304,442.14.

This information is revealed in the records of the Navarro county courthouse.

Total taxes collected, licenses and all, in 1847 were $131.32, while the expenditures were $125.04, leaving a balance of $6.28, while at the present time practically all general funds in Texas counties are in the "red," due according to county officials the country over, to the habit and practice of the legislature in passing bills and ordering the costs and expenses paid from the general fund.

Total collections of taxes for state, county, roads, schools, automobiles, occupations, etc., in Navarro county in 1933 were $530,405.70.

Taxes Went Up

Taxes went up in 1848 when county taxes amounted to $95.01 The total county tax collected the first three years of Navarro county's history after the annexation to the United States was $100.73.

William Hamilton was assessor and collector of taxes in 1847, and Wm. F. Henderson was county treasurer. C. M. Winkler, prominent early pioneer of Navarro county and noted Confederate soldier, audited the books for the county.

Judge C. E. McWilliams of the county court and commissioners court found the figures of the early day taxation reports Friday.

According to the figures furnished from the records by R. L. Harris, tax collector, for 1933, the county ad valorem, occupation, polls, roads and schools amounted to $304,442.14.

Highway receipts for 1933 amounted to $77,473.39. The county gets the first $50,000 of the auto, truck, motorcycles, buses, trailers and dealers. The state highway commission gets all the chauffeurs' licenses, transfers, duplicate plates and duplicate receipts. After the county gets the first $50,000 and the state gets the above-mentioned share, the remainder is divided on a 50-50 basis.

Ad Valorem Taxes

The state ad valorem taxes and occupation taxes for 1933 amounted to $148,490.17.

The amount of state and county taxes is considerably lower than in former years due to the reduction of the assessments of the county 25 per cent in 1933 by the commissioners court. The state rate this year is higher but with the renditions reduced and also taking into consideration the large number of homestead exemptions of state ad valorem taxes, the total to the state will likely be still further reduced.

The percentage of taxes collected thus far in 1934 have outstripped those of 1933 despite the loss of the state homestead valuations, the tax collector points out.

No City Taxes Included

The above figures do not include any city taxes, state and federal gasoline taxes, or federal tax and levies.

Much of the taxes collected in the county, however, are represented in bonds voted by school and road districts in the various precincts and sub-divisions, and are not levies by the governing bodies of the county.

A few years back, the collection of county and state taxes was considerably higher than the figures used above. At one time the renditions in Navarro county were more than $60,000,000. The present renditions are slightly more than $20,000,000.

The citizenship had not received the 25 per cent cut in renditions, had not been given relief from state ad valorem taxes on homesteads, and the state highway department was not paying a portion of the bonds and interest on funds used for the construction and improvement on state highways within the county.

Maintenance Tax

A district court decision a few years ago nullified one of the 10 cent maintenance taxes for road purposes and later the commissioners court declined to levy a county-wide 10-cent road maintenance tax which had been in effect for some time.

In road districts where most of the road bonds voted years ago were expended on state roads, their road tax has been lightened to an appreciable extent. The Purdon road district voted bonds several years ago, but later the bonds were cancelled and were thereby relieved of that levy.

However, the motorists were not paying the four-cent state gasoline tax. The county did not formerly get the first $50,000 in auto registration. The registrations were higher several years ago.

SENATOR CONNALLY HAS ANNOUNCED AS CANDIDATE AGAIN

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—Senator Tom Connally tersely announced his candidacy for re-election to the United States senate from Texas late yesterday without divulging his platform planks.

Senator Connally's announcement against Representative Joe Bailey followed a conference with President Roosevelt, after which the veteran senator said he had no "desire to involve the president in local or state politics."

"I am a candidate for renomination to a second term in the United States senate," Senator Connally said. "At a later date I shall formally discuss the record I have made during my first term and shall give my views on all important public questions."

Senator Connally's visit to the White House followed a similar visit by Representative Bailey on Wednesday. Immediately after Senator Connally emerged from the White House, an official memorandum was issued stating the administration was maintaining a "hands off" policy in local political campaigns.

Pointers on Poise

1. Standing Gracefully.

By LAURA TOWNSEND DAVIES

Hours have been spent teaching many of us how to handle our forks and spoons correctly, but the slightest training in the matter of handling ourselves, or learning the social amenities, such as keeping our listners awake and making all our guests feel equally consequential.

It Isn't a Gift.

In spite of a general lack of training in these directions, most of us admire tremenously that man or woman who has charm of manner and poise. But too often we make the mistake of thinking that poise is solely a gift of personality, when as a matter of fact, it is largely the result of training.

That favorite movie actress of yours does not "just happen" to do her parts pleasingly. As for the interesting lecturer you heard recently, his splendid poise was the outgrowth of experience. The ease of manner and poise that artists bring to their work may be yours, if you are willing to make the effort.

Watch Your Feet.

Take the right, graceful way to handle our feet when standing. (If you don't believe this is important, just observe the "unbeautiful" positions women get their feet into.) For grace, a woman should stand with her feet together, the weight swayed slightly ofrward over the ball of one foot, the back foot and knee propped against the front foot and knee.

Try this in front of a long mirror, and you will never again make the mistake of standing with your feet spread apart.

ADD CUT ....B

This girl, Helen Vinson of the screen, is standing gracefully.

An actress stands with her feet a-straddle only when she is portraying a common, bold type. For beauty of carriage, and to show your clothes to better advantage practice using your feet correctly.

EASTER PARADE THIS SEASON BE BLUE, STREAMLINED TYPES AND SAILOR HATS TO PREVAIL

By MARY E. PLUMMER

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—If Palm Sunday weather is any indication, the Easter parade next Sunday will be really windblown; and gusty breezes will be right in tune with the new spring clothes, for the people who planned them gave them a windswept movement.

This year's parade, which will be streamlined and sailor-hatted too. And it will be the bluest parade in years. Navy blue suits, shoes and hats will far outweigh all other colors.

This probably will be the most widely worn Easter costume:

A blue suit of some type. White or pastel accessories. As to flowers—gardenias or violets.

Probably the next most popular garb will be a 'redingote" wrap, worn over a print dress. Cartwheel hats, orchids, bracelet sleeves and wide pointed lapels also will be seen.

Men will be in the Easter parade, too, but they will be just plain men playing a minor role.

If their silk hats and cigars are poised at a jaunty angle it will be because business is better than at Easter last year. (the average gain in pre-easter retail sales over last year was placed at 48 per cent by a business review.)

It will be a more conservative parade than many of the predecessors—for instance, the parade of 1933, when slashed skirts and hats with up-flung "beanstalk" trimming appeared.

For comparison, here are some easier costume notes from other years:

1890—Hats were simply a wreath of wire netting with a mass of flowers on top. The blooms seemed to be springing from the head. Men wore suits that looked like "ye olde fire laddies."

1900—The year of the bell-shaped silhouette. An Easter hat had a puffy brim, a rosette, some green grapes, black flowers and a cherry or so.

WEAR A BOW AND WIN A BEAU

Pattern 1626

by Anne Adams

Trust smart women to choose this frock as their favorite for afternoon wear—its youthfulness and smartness is so typical of spring 1934. The bow—large and flowing—introduces a gay note of contrast, it has attractive sleeves set in raglan fashion and smart seamings in both bodice and skirt. A monotone, in one of the delicate pastel shades would be lovely—or a gay, splashy printed silk or crepe, if you've a mind. The bow might be fashioned of satin ribbon, taffeta or organdy. A delightful success if you make it yourself—and it's not at all difficult with the sewing Instructor included.

Pattern 1626 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 5-8 yards 39 inch fabric and 1-4 yard contrasting.

Send Fifteen Cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

CORSICANA, TEX., MAR. 27, 1934

SEASON OF SPENDING

The Easter season is a season of spending no less than Christmas. Clothing sales for the two weeks before Easter are customarily the heaviest of the year. Whoever has the wherewithal bedecks himself with new raiment. And if he has not the wherewithal, his wife does it anyway.

But the usual pre-Easter spurt does not alone account for the steady rise in business activity of all kinds. Freight car loadings, compared to a year ago, are up 20 per cent and rising weekly. And certainly not every male in the land is providing himself with a new armored vest. Steel mill output, however, has risen to 51 per cent of capacity.

The signs are unmistakable. Recovery is under way and is gaining momentum week by week.

PROFITS AND WAR

It has become a habit with pacifists of a certain type to blame war on munitions manufacturers.

This was the chief argument used by Senator Borah in his attack on the naval program. Munitions makers, the Idaho senator asserted, were largely if not chiefly responsible for the Word war, and still are active in efforts to promote a new conflict.

Henry Ford indorses Borah's views and declares that as long as there is "greed for profit" on the part of the munitions manufacturers wars will continue.

Those who adopt this line of argument apparently forget that other branches of industry profit from wars. Automobile maufacturers are no exception. Yet, we have not heard them charged with promoting international conflicts. The makers of clothing, the producers of food and numerous other manufacturers and distributors also profit—hugely. If one interest that makes money out of war is to be blamed for wars, why not blame all?

The weakness of this argument is apparent.

There were wars when bows and arrows were the only weapons, and there probably will be wars when all the present recognized weapons of war have been superceded by more effective ones.

Not until human nature undergoes a radical change will war disappear.

REGULATION

Congress has before it a plan for regulation of interstate bus and truck traffic by the Interstate Commerce Commission, a form of regulation that will come eventually if not during this session. And yet the case made out argues not for bus and truck regulation but for less regulation of the railroads.

Regulation has neither been asked nor recommended for the protection or advantage of the shipper or consumer, but for the protection of the railroads, which have been faring poorly in competition with these younger and less organized carriers. The chief argument seems to be that the railroads are losing business because they are under government restraint while the other carriers are not.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was created for the purpose of guaranteeing shipper, consumer and passenger fair rates and to end cutthroat and unfair competition among the roads. In the case of the buses and trucks their rates are lower than railroad rates. The only way regulation of buses and trucks could benefit the railroad business would be by jacking up the rates of the former, which would be an unnecessary tax upon both shipper and consumer.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1932, Edgar A. Guest.)

The Other Fellow's Hat.

It's little I care for the clothes man may wear.
He may dress as he will and I'll poison no barb
Or slight him or sneer, when I see him draw near.
I'll respect any man be whatever his garb.

This is truth he soon learns who will read Bobbie Burns;
A man is a man spite of trousers and coat.
And repeat it I will, a man's a man still
Though he hasn't a muffler to wrap round his throat.

The clothes a man wears are his personal affairs,
Unless, as it happened to me yesterday,
Some dumbell or crook takes my hat from the hook
And leaves me his old one and hurries away.
With a new hat and fine I had gone in to dine,
And proud and contented I sat in my chair,
But some fellow unknown, took my hat for his own,
And left a fedora a tramp wouldn't wear.

So I say for 'a that, when it comes to a hat
I care not a fig for what Bobbie Burns said:
Who takes mine from me, though mistaken he be,
Should leave one I'm willing to put on my head.

THE BONUS VOTE.

Among congressmen who voted for the bonus measure are many who probably would not go all the way in challenging the president's leadership. They realize that popular sentiment is with Mr. Roosevelt in his opposition to this raid on the public treasury in the midst of recovery efforts that are putting a tremendous strain upon the country's finances. They have given the veterans one vote. They could say to the ex-soldiers they felt it would not be wise to carry their rebellion to extreme lengths in view of the unsettled conditions, and hope in this way to retain the good will of the former soldiers.

Enactment of the bonus bill would be severe blow to recovery. This is generally recognized by all who have given the matter unprejudiced thought. The president, in his opposition to the measure, has taken a popular stand. Even should congress override his promised veto the soundness of his position will not have been weakened.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt can prevent enactment of the bill is by no means clear. That he will not back down, though, or retreat will be the hope of all who are able to place public welfare first in the consideration of public questions.

Full responsbility for the consequences, in the event the bill is passed, should be permitted to rest upon congress.

PISCATORIAL PROBLEMS

For the federal commission of fisheries and for all state fish conservation agencies life is one long dilemma. They must conserve the fisheries as a great natural resource and at the same time do their best to promote an industry founded on their exploitation and serving a hundred million hungry people, whom certain agencies are trying to make more fish-minded, and to promote a sport which makes fish conservation possible in most states.

One way to reconcile these two conflicting objectives is to encourage in the industry and the sportsman a spirit of enlightened self-interest. That takes time as it did in forest conservation; it was years before the bureau could bring the competing canners of Alaska into agreement on necessary conservation measures. But without such measures the industry itself may be doomed.

Because of land deficiencies of elements important to the health of man and his domestic animals, and the losses, it is desirable that man draw as fully as practicable on the resources of the seas, lakes and streams. To that proposition every piscator will say amen.

TRADE WAR TOUCHES UNITED STATES

Trade wars, like those of violence, sometimes affect nations not directly involved in the controversy.

The present dispute between France and Great Britain, in which each is cutting down its purchases from the other, threatens to have this effect, with the United States being a victim.

One of the factors figuring as a cause in the Anglo-French commercial rift was the contention by Great Britain that France had given the United States certain concessions which had not been granted Britain. The French came back with the assertion that these concessions did not represent special treatment accorded the United States but were in return for similar concessions made by the latter.

To support this argument, France is reported recently to have informed the United States that new concessions of a more substantial kind will have to be given her if her concessions to this country are to be continued. The present commercial agreement with the United States is effective only until April 1.

To refuse to make the desired concessions might cause the United States to lose important French trade, while to make them might place this country in the position of taking sides with France in its trade war with Britain. Neither result is desirable from the American standpoint.

RAINFALL DURING WEEKEND IS PLACED AT 2.62 INCHES

Rain fell slowly and almost continuously over Navarro county Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday. The rain will be of untold benefit to the farmers and truck growers of the county. Moisture will be furnished to bring up the corn that had been planted during the past week or ten days and land will be in excellent condition ofr further preparation for cotton planting.

Grains and gardens will be kept growing and moisture furnished for further planting of truck and garden vegetables.

The rain fell so slowly that land was not washed and the soil took up the needed moisture. All of the smaller creeks and branches in the county were filled to overflowing and the larger creeks are expected to overflow as a result of the rains. Sunday afternoon Chambers Creek was almost bank full and rising. Richland creek was also rising.

No wind accompanied the rain and no damage of any kind has been reported. Streets in the city of Corsicana were flooded Sunday but not enough to hamper traffic.

The rainfall here for the 48-hour period was 2.62 inches, and reports indicate a like amount of all sections of the county.

YOUNGER STARTS SPRING TRAINING IN INDIAN CAMP

WAXAHACHIE, March 26.—(Spl.)—Tommy C. Younger, new football coach of Waxahachie high school, is getting the Indians in good trim, putting them through a six weeks' practice and pointing to a skirmish between two teams from the squad that will be played next month.

Coach Younger regards his most promising players at this time as the following: Backs, G. Former Corsicanan Subject Of Article In Telephone News

An article of especial interest to Corsicana friends of Mr. M. P. Caldwell and family, former residents of this city, appeared in the March 13 issue of the Southwestern Telephone News.

It is stated that Mr. Caldwell who has been division commercial superintendent for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., had retired after 40 years of service with the company.

He began his term of service as a boy operator in Corsicana in 1893, just seven years after the telephone was invented. He moved to Fort Worth in 1912 as assistant division superintendent, from which position he was promoted to his present office in 1916.

Mr. Caldwell has been a resident of Fort Worth the past 22 years. He is a member of the Julian Field Masonic Lodge, 908; has 35 years membership in the Odd Fellows Lodge; is a Rotarian; a member of the Fort Worth club, and of Glen Gardens Country club.

PURSLEY DEFEATED PICKET IN INITIAL GAME OF BASEBALL

PURSLEY, March 26.—(Spl.)—Behind the no-hit pitching of Chester Kirk for three innings, Pursley hung a 11-2 defeat on Pickett in an exhibition game here Friday afternoon. The game was featured by the hitting of varied intensity of Brown, of Pursley, who in four times at bat collected a double, a triple and a home-run.

V. Tanner, of Pickett, was the fielding-sensation of the day, and was reported to have made one of the most beautiful catches ever seen here. In pitching his mates to a victory, Kirk worked three innings, and fanned nine men and walked one. As is evidenced by the small number of errors of each team, the fielding was above the average.

Pursley's victory came as a result of 10 hits off G. Tanner and Henry, with Brown collecting three, and scoring four runs. Kirk and Roberts and Burns, of Pursley limited Pickett to four safe clouts.

This was the first baseball game of the season reported.

RECORDS REVEAL INTERESTING FACTS CONCERNING TAXES PAST, PRESENT IN NAVARRO COUNTY

Total county tax collected in Navarro county in 1846 amounted to 52 cents. Total county tax in 1933 (depression and all), $304,442.14.

This information is revealed in the records of the Navarro county courthouse.

Total taxes collected, licenses and all, in 1847 were $131.32, while the expenditures were $125.04, leaving a balance of $6.28, while at the present time practically all general funds in Texas counties are in the "red," due according to county officials the country over, to the habit and practice of the legislature in passing bills and ordering the costs and expenses paid from the general fund.

Total collections of taxes for state, county, roads, schools, automobiles, occupations, etc., in Navarro county in 1933 were $530,405.70.

Taxes Went Up

Taxes went up in 1848 when county taxes amounted to $95.01 The total county tax collected the are not levies by the governing bodies of the county.

A few years back, the collection of county and state taxes was considerably higher than the figures used above. At one time the renditions in Navarro county were more than $60,000,000. The present renditions are slightly more than $20,000,000.

The citizenship had not received the 25 per cent cut in renditions, had not been given relief from state ad valorem taxes on homesteads, and the state highway department was not paying a portion of the bonds and interest on funds used for the construction and improvement on state highways within the county.

Maintenance Tax

A district court decision a few years ago nullified one of the 10 cent maintenance taxes for road purposes and later the commissioners court declined to levy a county-wide 10-cent road maintenance tax which had been in effect for some time.

Pointers on Poise

1. Standing Gracefully.

By LAURA TOWNSEND DAVIES

Hours have been spent teaching many of us how to handle our forks and spoons correctly, but the slightest training in the matter of handling ourselves, or learning the social amenities, such as keeping our listners awake and making all our guests feel equally consequential.

It Isn't a Gift.

In spite of a general lack of training in these directions, most of us admire tremenously that man or woman who has charm of manner and poise. But too often we make the mistake of thinking that poise is solely a gift of personality, when as a matter of fact, it is largely the result of training.

That favorite movie actress of yours does not "just happen" to do her parts pleasingly. As for the interesting lecturer you heard recently, his splendid poise was the outgrowth of experience. The ease of manner and poise that artists bring to their work may be yours, if you are willing to make the effort.

Watch Your Feet.

Take the right, graceful way to handle our feet when standing. (If you don't believe this is important, just observe the "un-

If their silk hats and cigars are poised at a jaunty angle it will be because business is better than at Easter last year. (the average gain in pre-easter retail sales over last year was placed at 48 per cent by a business review.)

It will be a more conservative parade than many of the predecessors—for instance, the parade of 1933, when slashed skirts and hats with up-flung "beanstalk" trimming appeared.

For comparison, here are some easier costume notes from other years:

1890—Hats were simply a wreath of wire netting with a mass of flowers on top. The blooms seemed to be springing from the head. Men wore suits that looked like "ye olde fire laddies."

1900—The year of the bell-shaped silhouette. An Easter hat had a puffy brim, a rosette, some green grapes, black flowers and a cherry or so.

WEAR A BOW AND WIN A BEAU

Pattern 1626

by Anne Adams

Trust smart women to choose this frock as their favorite for afternoon wear—its youthfulness and smartness is so typical of spring 1934. The bow—large and flowing—introduces a gay note of contrast. It has attractive sleeves set in raglan fashion and smart seamings in both bodice and skirt. A monotone, in one of the delicate pastel shades would be lovely—or a gay, splashy printed silk or crepe, if you've a mind. The bow might be fashioned of satin ribbon, taffeta or organdy. A delightful success if you make it yourself—and it's not at all difficult with the sewing Instructor included.

Pattern 1626 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 5-8 yards 39 inch fabric and 1-4 yard contrasting.

SEASON OF SPENDING

The Easter season is a season of spending no less than Christmas. Clothing sales for the two weeks before Easter are customarily the heaviest of the year. Whoever has the wherewithal bedecks himself with new raiment. And if he has not the wherewithal, his wife does it anyway.

But the usual pre-Easter spurt does not alone account for the steady rise in business activity of all kinds. Freight car loadings, compared to a year ago, are up 20 per cent and rising weekly. And certainly not every male in the land is providing himself with a new armored vest. Steel mill output, however, has risen to 51 per cent of capacity.

The signs are unmistakable. Recovery is under way and is gaining momentum week by week.

PROFITS AND WAR

It has become a habit with pacifists of a certain type to blame war on munitions manufacturers.

This was the chief argument used by Senator Borah in his attack on the naval program. Munitions makers, the Idaho senator asserted, were largely if not chiefly responsible for the Word war, and still are active in efforts to promote a new conflict.

Henry Ford indorses Borah's views and declares that as long as there is "greed for profit" on the part of the munitions manufacturers wars will continue.

Those who adopt this line of argument apparently forget that other branches of industry profit from wars. Automobile maufacturers are no exception. Yet, we have not heard them charged with promoting international conflicts. The makers of clothing, the producers of food and numerous other manufacturers and distributors also profit—hugely. If one interest that makes money out of war is to be blamed for wars, why not blame all?

The weakness of this argument is apparent.

There were wars when bows and arrows were the only weapons, and there probably will be wars when all the present recognized weapons of war have been superceded by more effective ones.

Not until human nature undergoes a radical change will war disappear.

REGULATION

Congress has before it a plan for regulation of interstate bus and truck traffic by the Interstate Commerce Commission, a form of regulation that will come eventually if not during this session. And yet the case made out argues not for bus and truck regulation but for less regulation of the railroads.

Regulation has neither been asked nor recommended for the protection or advantage of the shipper or consumer, but for the protection of the railroads, which have been faring poorly in competition with these younger and less organized carriers. The chief argument seems to be that the railroads are losing business because they are under government restraint while the other carriers are not.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was created for the purpose of guaranteeing shipper, consumer and passenger fair rates and to end cutthroat and unfair competition among the roads. In the case of the buses and trucks their rates are lower than railroad rates. The only way regulation of buses and trucks could benefit the railroad business would be by jacking up the rates of the former, which would be an unnecessary tax upon both shipper and consumer.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1932, Edgar A. Guest.)

The Other Fellow's Hat.

It's little I care for the clothes man may wear.
He may dress as he will and I'll poison no barb
Or slight him or sneer, when I see him draw near.
I'll respect any man be whatever his garb.

This is truth he soon learns who will read Bobbie Burns;
A man is a man spite of trousers and coat.
And repeat it I will, a man's a man still
Though he hasn't a muffler to wrap round his throat.

The clothes a man wears are his personal affairs,
Unless, as it happened to me yesterday,
Some dumbell or crook takes my hat from the hook
And leaves me his old one and hurries away.
With a new hat and fine I had gone in to dine,
And proud and contented I sat in my chair,
But some fellow unknown, took my hat for his own,
And left a fedora a tramp wouldn't wear.

So I say for 'a that, when it comes to a hat
I care not a fig for what Bobbie Burns said:
Who takes mine from me, though mistaken he be,
Should leave one I'm willing to put on my head.

THE BONUS VOTE.

Among congressmen who voted for the bonus measure are many who probably would not go all the way in challenging the president's leadership. They realize that popular sentiment is with Mr. Roosevelt in his opposition to this raid on the public treasury in the midst of recovery efforts that are putting a tremendous strain upon the country's finances. They have given the veterans one vote. They could say to the ex-soldiers they felt it would not be wise to carry their rebellion to extreme lengths in view of the unsettled conditions, and hope in this way to retain the good will of the former soldiers.

Enactment of the bonus bill would be severe blow to recovery. This is generally recognized by all who have given the matter unprejudiced thought. The president, in his opposition to the measure, has taken a popular stand. Even should congress override his promised veto the soundness of his position will not have been weakened.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt can prevent enactment of the bill is by no means clear. That he will not back down, though, or retreat will be the hope of all who are able to place public welfare first in the consideration of pubic questions.

Full responsbility for the consequences, in the event the bill is passed, should be permitted to rest upon congress.

PISCATORIAL PROBLEMS

For the federal commission of fisheries and for all state fish conservation agencies life is one long dilemma. They must conserve the fisheries as a great natural resource and at the same time do their best to promote an industry founded on their exploitation and serving a hundred million hungry people, whom certain agencies are trying to make more fish-minded, and to promote a sport which makes fish conservation possible in most states.

One way to reconcile these two conflicting objectives is to encourage in the industry and the sportsman a spirit of enlightened self-interest. That takes time as it did in forest conservation; it was years before the bureau could bring the competing canners of Alaska into agreement on necessary conservation measures. But without such measures the industry itself may be doomed.

Because of land deficiencies of elements important to the health of man and his domestic animals, and the losses. it is desirable that man draw as fully as practicable on the resources of the seas, lakes and streams. To that proposition every piscator will say amen.

Our idea of a modest man is one who can keep his opinion of himself to himself.

TRADE WAR TOUCHES UNITED STATES

Trade wars, like those of violence. sometimes affect nations not directly involved in the controversy.

The present dispute between France and Great Britain, in which each is cutting down its purchases from the other, threatens to have this effect, with the United States being a victim.

One of the factors figuring as a cause in the Anglo-French commercial rift was the contention by Great Britain that France had given the United States certain concessions which had not been granted Britain. The French came back with the assertion that these concessions did not represent special treatment accorded the United States but were in return for similar concessions made by the latter.

To support this argument, France is reported recently to have informed the United States that new concessions of a more substantial kind will have to be given her if her concessions to this country are to be continued. The present commercial agreement with the United States is effective only until April 1.

To refuse to make the desired concessions might cause the United States to lose important French trade, while to make them might place this country in the position of taking sides with France in its trade war with Britain. Neither result is desirable from the American standpoint.

Emperior Kang-teh of Manchukuo ought to be able to make ends meet. He begins his reign at a salary of $1,750,000 a year, which is not so bad considering the times. Eventually, Tokyo may boost his pay.

Women smokers take note: A scientist says smoking adds sugar to one's blood, and sugar is fattening.

What a world! Millions spent to kill crop pests; more millions spent to save farmers because the pests didn't destroy enough.

Radio waves now are being used to kill tooth decay germs. But they don't affect those that croon into the microphone.

It is sometimes disappointing to discover that a hero is only human after all.

Nothing destroys the memory of man like doing him a favor.

Getting out of jail is about as easy for some as getting in.

RAINFALL DURING WEEKEND IS PLACED AT 2.62 INCHES

Rain fell slowly and almost continuously over Navarro county Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday. The rain will be of untold benefit to the farmers and truck growers of the county. Moisture will be furnished to bring up the corn that had been planted during the past week or ten days and land will be in excellent condition ofr further preparation for cotton planting.

Grains and gardens will be kept growing and moisture furnished for further planting of truck and garden vegetables.

The rain fell so slowly that land was not washed and the soil took up the needed moisture. All of the smaller creeks and branches in the county were filled to overflowing and the larger creeks are expected to overflow as a result of the rains. Sunday afternoon Chambers Creek was almost bank full and rising. Richland creek was also rising.

No wind accompanied the rain and no damage of any kind has been reported. Streets in the city of Corsicana were flooded Sunday but not enough to hamper traffic.

The rainfall here for the 48-hour period was 2.62 inches, and reports indicate a like amount of all sections of the county.

Former Corsicanan Subject Of Article In Telephone News

An article of especial interest to Corsicana friends of Mr. M. P. Caldwell and family, former residents of this city, appeared in the March 13 issue of the Southwestern Telephone News.

It is stated that Mr. Caldwell who has been division commercial superintendent for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., had retired after 40 years of service with the company.

He began his term of service as a boy operator in Corsicana in 1893, just seven years after the telephone was invented. He moved to Fort Worth in 1912 as assistant division superintendent, from which position he was promoted to his present office in 1916.

Mr. Caldwell has been a resident of Fort Worth the past 22 years. He is a member of the Julian Field Masonic Lodge, 908; has 35 years membership in the Odd Fellows Lodge; is a Rotarian; a member of the Fort Worth club, and of Glen Gardens Country club.

Mr. Beverley Caldwell of this city is his nephew.

PURSLEY DEFEATED PICKET IN INITIAL GAME OF BASEBALL

PURSLEY, March 26.—(Spl.)—Behind the no-hit pitching of Chester Kirk for three innings, Pursley hung a 11-2 defeat on Pickett in an exhibition game here Friday afternoon. The game was featured by the hitting of varied intensity of Brown, of Pursley, who in four times at bat collected a double, a triple and a home-run.

V. Tanner, of Pickett, was the fielding-sensation of the day, and was reported to have made one of the most beautiful catches ever seen here. In pitching his mates to a victory, Kirk worked three innings, and fanned nine men and walked one. As is evidenced by the small number of errors of each team, the fielding was above the average.

Pursley's victory came as a result of 10 hits off G. Tanner and Henry, with Brown collecting three, and scoring four runs. Kirk and Roberts and Burns, of Pursley limited Pickett to four safe clouts.

This was the first baseball game of the season reported.

RECORDS REVEAL INTERESTING FACTS CONCERNING TAXES PAST, PRESENT IN NAVARRO COUNTY

Total county tax collected in Navarro county in 1846 amounted to 52 cents. Total county tax in 1933 (depression and all), $304,442.14.

This information is revealed in the records of the Navarro county courthouse.

Total taxes collected, licenses and all, in 1847 were $131.32, while the expenditures were $125.04, leaving a balance of $6.28, while at the present time practically all general funds in Texas counties are in the "red," due according to county officials the country over, to the habit and practice of the legislature in passing bills and ordering the costs and expenses paid from the general fund.

Total collections of taxes for state, county, roads, schools, automobiles, occupations, etc., in Navarro county in 1933 were $530,405.70.

Taxes Went Up

Taxes went up in 1848 when county taxes amounted to $95.01 The total county tax collected the first three years of Navarro county's history after the annexation to the United States was $100.73.

William Hamilton was assessor and collector of taxes in 1847, and Wm. F. Henderson was county treasurer. C. M. Winkler, prominent early pioneer of Navarro county and noted Confederate soldier, audited the books for the county.

Judge C. E. McWilliams of the county court and commissioners court found the figures of the early day taxation reports Friday.

According to the figures furnished from the records by R. L. Harris, tax collector, for 1933, the county ad valorem, occupation, polls, roads and schools amounted to $304,442.14.

Highway receipts for 1933 amounted to $77,473.39. The county gets the first $50,000 of the auto, truck, motorcycles, buses, trailers and dealers. The state highway commission gets all the chauffeurs' licenses, transfers, duplicate plates and duplicate receipts. After the county gets the first $50,000 and the state gets the above-mentioned share, the remainder is divided on a 50-50 basis.

Ad Valorem Taxes

The state ad valorem taxes and occupation taxes for 1933 amounted to $148,490.17.

The amount of state and county taxes is considerably lower than in former years due to the reduction of the assessments of the county 25 per cent in 1933 by the commissioners court. The state rate this year is higher but with the renditions reduced and also taking into consideration the large number of homestead exemptions of state ad valorem taxes, the total to the state will likely be still further reduced.

The percentage of taxes collected thus far in 1934 have outstripped those of 1933 despite the loss of the state homestead valuations, the tax collector points out.

No City Taxes Included

The above figures do not include any city taxes, state and federal gasoline taxes, or federal tax and levies.

Much of the taxes collected in the county, however, are represented in bonds voted by school and road districts in the various precincts and sub-divisions, and are not levies by the governing bodies of the county.

A few years back, the collection of county and state taxes was considerably higher than the figures used above. At one time the renditions in Navarro county were more than $60,000,000. The present renditions are slightly more than $20,000,000.

The citizenship had not received the 25 per cent cut in renditions, had not been given relief from state ad valorem taxes on homesteads, and the state highway department was not paying a portion of the bonds and interest on funds used for the construction and improvement on state highways within the county.

Maintenance Tax

A district court decision a few years ago nullified one of the 10 cent maintenance taxes for road purposes and later the commissioners court declined to levy a county-wide 10-cent road maintenance tax which had been in effect for some time.

In road districts where most of the road bonds voted years ago were expended on state roads, their road tax has been lightened to an appreciable extent. The Purdon road district voted bonds several years ago, but later the bonds were cancelled and were thereby relieved of that levy.

However, the motorists were not paying the four-cent state gasoline tax. The county did not formerly get the first $50,000 in auto registration. The registrations were higher several years ago.

SENATOR CONNALLY HAS ANNOUNCED AS CANDIDATE AGAIN

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—Senator Tom Connally tersely announced his candidacy for reelection to the United States senate from Texas late yesterday without divulging his platform planks.

Senator Connally's announcement against Representative Joe Bailey followed a conference with President Roosevelt, after which the veteran senator said he had no "desire to involve the president in local or state politics."

"I am a candidate for renomination to a second term in the United States senate," Senator Connally said. "At a later date I shall formally discuss the record I have made during my first term and shall give my views on all important public questions."

Senator Connally's visit to the White House followed a similar visit by Representative Bailey on Wednesday. Immediately after Senator Connally emerged from the White House, an official memorandum was issued stating the administration was maintaining a "hands off" policy in local political campaigns.

Pointers on Poise

1. Standing Gracefully.

By LAURA TOWNSEND DAVIES

Hours have been spent teaching many of us how to handle our forks and spoons correctly, but the slightest training in the matter of handling ourselves, or learning the social amenities, such as keeping our listners awake and making all our guests feel equally consequential.

It Isn't a Gift.

In spite of a general lack of training in these directions, most of us admire tremenously that man or woman who has charm of manner and poise. But too often we make the mistake of thinking that poise is solely a gift of personality, when as a matter of fact, it is largely the result of training.

That favorite movie actress of yours does not "just happen" to do her parts pleasingly. As for the interesting lecturer you heard recently, his splendid poise was the outgrowth of experience. The ease of manner and poise that artists bring to their work may be yours, if you are willing to make the effort.

Watch Your Feet.

Take the right, graceful way to handle our feet when standing. (If you don't believe this is important, just observe the "unbeautiful" positions women get their feet into.) For grace, a woman should stand with her feet together, the weight swayed slightly ofrward over the ball of one foot, the back foot and knee propped against the front foot and knee.

Try this in front of a long mirror, and you will never again make the mistake of standing with your feet spread apart.

ADD CUT ....B

This girl, Helen Vinson of the screen, is standing gracefully.

An actress stands with her feet a-straddle only when she is portraying a common, bold type. For beauty of carriage, and to show your clothes to better advantage practice using your feet correctly.

EASTER PARADE THIS SEASON BE BLUE, STREAMLINED TYPES AND SAILOR HATS TO PREVAIL

By MARY E. PLUMMER

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—If Palm Sunday weather is any indication, the Easter parade next Sunday will be really windblown; and gusty breezes will be right in tune with the new spring clothes, for the people who planned them gave them a windswept movement.

This year's parade, which will be streamlined and sailor-hatted too. And it will be the bluest parade in years. Navy blue suits, shoes and hats will far outweigh all other colors.

This probably will be the most widely worn Easter costume:

A blue suit of some type. White or pastel accessories. As to flowers—gardenias or violets.

Probably the next most popular garb will be a 'redingote" wrap, worn over a print dress. Cartwheel hats, orchids, bracelet sleeves and wide pointed lapels also will be seen.

Men will be in the Easter parade, too, but they will be just plain men playing a minor role.

If their silk hats and cigars are poised at a jaunty angle it will be because business is better than at Easter last year. (the average gain in pre-easter retail sales over last year was placed at 48 per cent by a business review.)

It will be a more conservative parade than many of the predecessors—for instance, the parade of 1933, when slashed skirts and hats with up-flung "beanstalk" trimming appeared.

For comparison, here are some easier costume notes from other years:

1890—Hats were simply a wreath of wire netting with a mass of flowers on top. The blooms seemed to be springing from the head. Men wore suits that looked like "ye olde fire laddies."

1900—The year of the bell-shaped silhouette. An Easter hat had a puffy brim, a rosette, some green grapes, black flowers and a cherry or so.

WEAR A BOW AND WIN A BEAU

Pattern 1626

by Anne Adams

Trust smart women to choose this frock as their favorite for afternoon wear—its youthfulness and smartness is so typical of spring 1934. The bow—large and flowing—introduces a gay note of contrast, it has attractive sleeves set in raglan fashion and smart seamings in both bodice and skirt. A monotone, in one of the delicate pastel shades would be lovely—or a gay, splashy printed silk or crepe, if you've a mind. The bow might be fashioned of satin ribbon, taffeta or organdy. A delightful success if you make it yourself—and it's not at all difficult with the sewing Instructor included.

Pattern 1626 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 5-8 yards 39 inch fabric and 1-4 yard contrasting.

HAIR DRESSING STYLES

A few new things have taken place lately in hair dressing styles. I do not mean the long bob, we have had that some time. Nor the hair bands, particularly, they've been running a long time now and are likely to be good fashion for some time to come. Fortunately, for they make the face young, a fashion to be taken advantage of, they also hold back the loose, short ends of hair, which makes you look neater, and they can give the small figure added height, and lend dignity to the tall one! Altogether, a very useful fashion. However, do not overdo the hair band idea. I see in New York shops such absurd signs as "Tiaras, 59c." Avoid "tiaras"—that is, of paste jewels. But you can buy or make simpler bands, or wear modernistic bands, with stars, or great colored or clear glass balls which are decorative, but not pretentious.

If you've a permanent, or are lucky enough to have naturally wavy hair, keep the ends a little long and curl them up in the back off your neck. It is most youthful, and gives you a chance to try various fashions—such as combing the hair back from the face and then fluffing it way out in back. Or you can have it waved in a slanting manner, and comb it to a wide curl back of one ear—leaving the other ear bare and with the hair combed away from it. You can wear the new false braid with this style too, since you have longish ends to curl up over the spot where the braid is pinned on.

The newest fashion I saw in Europe was to bring the hair straight back off the forehead. With this severe beginning, you can do anything—even to cutting the hair short, with a slight wave at the back.

Mrs. J. H.—You probably need to give the hair near to the scalp more time when using the henna on it, than for the balance of the hair. Once you get all the hair the same shade it will only be a matter of touching up that part near to the roots, possibly this may be once a week, or every other week, dependent upon how fast the natural color appears. If you could have had the work done for you the first time, you would not have had these different shadings, but it is possible to correct this now by the touching until the henna shade begins at the roots and continues.

M. J. F.—Apparently you make the lines over the forehead, as they disappear when you use the adhesive tape on them. Watch your habits and correct the frowning that causes the lines.

New York Cotton Steady.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Cotton opened very steady, 12 to 13 higher on better cables and favorable labor developments, May 12.23, July 12.24, October 12.37, Dec. 12.46, Jan. 12.52, March 12.64.

Moderately active foreign and domestic trade buying combined with a little speculative demand through commission houses accounted for the opening advance. Selling credited to Bombay account appeared in the early trading and prices lost about 4 to 7 points of their gains. This pressure was not particularly active, however, and firmness of the stock market checked selling from other sources. By the end of th first half hour the market was holding at net advances of about 7 to 9 points.

Pressure of near month liquidation and selling by Liverpool in the more distant positions caused the market to lose about 7 to 9 points of its pinitial rallies late in the morning. May eased from 12.13 to 12.04 and October from 12.37 to 12.29 and at around midday prices were at or within a few points of these levels, leaving the general markt about 4 to 7 points net higher.

New Orleans Cotton Firmer.

NEW ORLEANS. March 26.—(AP)—Cotton opened somewhat firmer today in response to an advance in Liverpool and up on October. July and October gaining nine points up on May and July and 8 encouraging strike news. First trades were ed an additional point right after the start making the net gain 9 to 10 points strike developments prices here eased ed but slightly higher considering the over the previous close. As stocks opento 12.07 for May, 12.20 for July and 12.32 for October, or 1 to 3 points down from the opening but still 6 to 7 points above Saturday's close.

The market developed only moderate trading during the morning and although stocks were higher, prices here were barely steady owing to lack of buying support. There was a slow reaction to 12.05 for May, 12.15 for July and 12.28 for October, or 6 to 8 points down from early highs but still three points above Saturday's close.

Near noon, prices rallied one point to two points on continued firmness in stocks, raising the price level to 4 to 5 points net higher.

DELEGATION FROM CORSICANA ATTEND DALLAS OIL MEET

PLANS WILL BE MADE FOR IMMEDIATE ENFORCEMENT OF PRORATION LAWS

Plans were being made Monday by Corsicana Chamber of Commerce officials and local oil men to send a strong delegation from this city to the meeting to be held Friday at the Adolphus Hotel in Dalls, which has as its purpose the making of plans for the immediate enforcement of the new proration laws.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Texas Petroleum Council, headed by R. L. Wheelock of Corsicana as president, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, and the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

According to advance indications, the meeting will be attended by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, Attorney General James V. Allred and members of his staff, members of the railroad commision, and representatives of groups of operators from every producing section of the state.

Ways and means of effectively combatting "hot oil" will be presented, discussed, and some unified campaign adopted, the sponsors declare. A number of Corsicana men are reported planning to attend the meeting.

Oats No. 2 red 43-45 1-2; No. 3 red 42-52 1-2.

Grain Prices Lower.

CHICAGO, March 26.—(AP)—Prospective benefits to crops because of snow and rain over domestic wheat territory southwest put a damper on buying in the grain markets today, and prices went downhill.

Amarillo Texas reported 21 inches of snow on the ground, the heaviest fall since 1903. Under such circumstances, improved industrial prospects, with advance of securities, were largely ignored. A fresh decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total was also without much immediately influence.

Wheat closed weak at about the day's bottom prices, May 86 1-4 7-8, and 1 to 1 3-8 under Saturday's finish, corn 3-8 to 5-8 down, oats 3-8 to 5-8 off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

SECTION HI-WAY 22 IN HILL COUNTY IS SCHEDULED BE LET

Contract on the Hill county section of Highway 22 was scheduled for letting at the Monday meeting of the Texas Highway Commission, according to information received by M. L. Bowers, resident highway engineer, but the Navarro county section of the highway west from Corsicana is still pending although it is scheduled for letting during the summer.

Plans and blueprints for the bids on Highway 22 east from Corsicana and also for the bridge across the Trinity River between Corsicana and Palestine have been completed and are available to contractors in the resident engineer's office, he reported Monday. These contracts are scheduled for letting either as state or state-federal projects at the April meeting of the commission.

Mr. Bowers estimated that about six months would be required for the construction of the bridge across the river, and that the entire road should be completed by the end of this year.

WEATHER

normal with favorable conditions through the rest of the spring.

Dirt highways in some localities were almost impassable. Busses to Lubbock had been cancelled, and those to Wichita Fals and Covis, N. M., were running late.

Skies were clearing.

BEAUMONT, March 26.—(AP)—Rainfall of 3.9 inches in this area last night was believed to have caused thousands of dollars damage by delay to spring gardens and delicate blooms beaten from fruit trees.

KERRVILLE, March 26.—(AP)—Two inches of rain, acompanied by hail and a high wind, fell in Kerr county over the week-end. Many goat raisers reported losses and Jeff Love said he had lost from 1,200 to 1,500. The moisture was regarded as a boon to ranges.

BEER ELECTION

strictions on places of sale will also be determined, the statute providing that the court may rule that no plaec of sale may be erected closer than 300 feet to any school, church or other educational institution.

Applications of the proposed dealers will be posted on the bulletin board at the courthouse by the county clerk where they will be available for inspection. Judge McWilliams stated that any application might be protested by the filing of a bond to cover the cost of the contest by the protestant, unless said protestant be the county attorney, who might protest without bond.

Certain Restrictions.

The state beer statute provides that the licenses may be forfeited for the sale of the beverage to minors, for the selling of malt, vinous or spiritous liquors on the same premises or the displaying of the word "saloon" in connection with the place of sale.

The statute also provides that no sales may be made between 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. on primary or general election days, the county judge pointed out, and that places having as their principal business the sale of beer could not sell between midnight Saturday and 7 a. m. of the following Monday morning, and could not make sales between 12 midnight and 7 a. m. on any other day.

The applications for a license set out that the applicant is a law-abiding tax payer, over 21 years of age, who has not been convicted of a felony within two years of the date of the application; the location of his proposed place of business; and that not since September 15, 1933, date of the enactment of the state legalization measure, and while engaged in the manufacture, sale or distribution of beer, has he paid, contributed or furnished any money or thing of value to any candidate for any public office.

Local Option.

Judge McWilliams also reported that the ruling of attorney general was that when the sale was legalized in the state that it could be sold only in counties which were "wet" before state-wide prohibition was voted; and when a dry county voted for the sale of beer, that it could be sold only in those places which were "wet" when the county as a whole went dry.

The county judge stated that he had not searched the records but had been informed by veteran courthouse attaches that only Justice Precinct 1 and possibly Justice Precinct 2 would be able to allow the sale under this ruling. He stated that the records would be searched before the meeting of the court on Thursday, and the eligible territories outlined. The remaining sections of the county will have to hold local option elections in order to qualify, he stated.

Precinct No. 1.

Justice Precinct 1 was described as a wedge-shaped section of the county from the county line on the north to Richland creek on the south, is bounded on the west by Bryar and Richland creeks, and on the east by Chambers creek to a point near Providence where the line veers considerably west. It includes Corsicana, Emhouse, Angus, Navarro, Mildred, Providence, Cheneyboro, Pinkston and Corbet.

Justice Precinct 2 is a small segment of the northeastern portion of the county and includes the towns of Roane, Chatfield, Tupelo and Rice.

A majority of 815 votes was piled up by the four Corsicana voting precincts in Saturday's election, and while the number was slightly decreased as returns from the other boxes were reported, the majority hovered around the 700 mark until the end of the tabulation. The total vote in Corsicana was 1185 votes for the sale of beer and 370 against.

Springhill in the southwestern part of the county voted 15 to 0 against the sale of beer, while the wets scored a shutout at Cade, where the vote was 8 to 0 in favor of the sale.

The boxes still unreported at noon Monday were Bazette, Cryer Creek, Rural Shade and Phillips Chapel.

CONGRESS

The legislation listing cattle and other goods as basic commodities under the farm act has yet to be acted on finally by the senate before reaching the white house.

Opposes Wagner Bill.

Hugh S. Johnson, because his overtime work in the automobile dispute necessitated a real rest, could not appear for his testimony to a senate committee on the Wagner bill. This gave Jas. A. Emery, of the National Manufacturers assciation, an earlier chance, and he declared the proposal "would cast all labor relation in one mould, granting a labor monopoly to those who employ it. It will develop bitterness, discord and conflict by outlawing the development of conference and co-operation. It would destroy in one class of workers and employers the very rights which it undertakes to secure for another organization of workers."

There was such an impasse in wage negotiations by Joseph B. Eastman between the labor and management spokesmen, meanwhile that the dispute appeared likely to be referred to the federal mediation board for more detailed discussions.

Other Developments.

Of the scattering developments during the day were:

The commodity credit corporation estimated that loans to cotton producers and corn farmers on warehoused crops have exceeded $141,482,000. Loans at ten cents per pound on cotton averaged $250 each. Corn loans at 45 cents per bushel averaged $639 each.

It appeared more probable that a congressional investigation would be made into statements by Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educator, that Roosevelt "Brain Trust" members were seeking to overthrow the government for Communism.

Professor Slichter of the Harvard business school before a house committee opposed trying to put into operation until the depression is over an unemployment insurance plan such as that provided in the Presidentally-approved Wagner-Lewis bill. He said "an additional burden of as much as 5 per cent on payrolls would be exceedingly unwise and further retard recovery already started in my judgment, by pushing up wages."

No More Furloughs.

Exemption was granted 40,000 postal workers from Postmaster General Farley's furlough order requiring field service personnel to be fourloughed without pay for four days during the remainder of the fiscal year.

Action on legislation to allow federal loans to industry was postponed by the senate banking committee to await a substitute bill by Senator Glass (D-Va.)

In the house tariff debate, the drew the contention of Repub- administration reciprocal proposal lican Leader Snell trat it would destroy "industries in which five million Americans are employed."

To Probe Statement.

WASHIGTON, March 26—(AP)—A resolution for a congressional investigation of statements by Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Indiana, educator, that members of the Roosevelt "brain trust" said they were attempting to overthrow the present government was introduced today by Representative Bulwinkle (D-N. C.).

It appeared likely the investigation—to be made by a select house committee—would be ordered.

Speaker Rainey referred the resolution to the house rules committee and Bulwinkle said he would ask for early hearings with a view to getting house action.

The inquiry would be conducted by five members to be approved by the speaker.

The committee would be directed "to conduct a thorough investigation of the truth or falsity of the statements alleged to have been made" by Wirt.

JULIAN

Julian's midnight dinner companion at the fashionable hotel, Leonora Levy, his secretary, was believed recovering from the same potion that physicians said killed Julian.

In a hospital, she regained consciousness long enought to tell nurses:

"Julian said he would do it. I did not believe him, but he did it. He was a brave man."

Miss Levy found Julian in his hotel room, dying, when she became alarmed at his prolonged absence after excusing himself from their table. She accompanied Julian to the hospital and remained outside his room until he died. Then she returned to the hotel. There she was found in a critical condition from the effects of the poison which killed Julian.

As Julian now has been officially identified, it is possible for friends to go ahead with funeral plans. The funeral is expacted to be held Tuesday or Wednesday.

It seemed likely that this man who once was a multimillionaire and who even to the time of his death claimed to own property in California and Oklahoma worth millions, would go to a charity grave.

blow where St. Claude avenue swings sharply to the left. Leaving the avenue, the wind followed Almonaster canal down Almonaster and Eads streets, an area of modest homes, flinging parked automobiles into the canal, lifting roofs and smashing the walls of houses for five blocks. Only a few minutes later, the storm dipped again a mile away, wrecking 15 additional houses on the edge of Lake Pontchartrain before blowing itself out in the lake.

Charity hospital, where most of the injured were taken, announced shortly before noon that extreme unction, the last rites of the Catholic church in anticipation of death, had been given to some of those in the emergency ward.

Police said it was remarkable that many were not killed instantly in the area.

The wind struck suddenly with terrific force, residents said. Suddenly it turned dark as midnight, lights went out and roaring, crashing noises followed. The blow had come and gone in two minutes but left destruction, turmoil and terror in its wake.

Wind Followed Canal.

The wind followed the Almonaster canal and blew out on Lake Pontchartrain. As the wind struck, the screams of horrified men, women and children were heard and when the policemen and firemen arrived, families, dazed from fright, were wandering about the debris in a heavy downpour of rain.

Live wires and burst gas mains offered another menace and the police herded the families out of the stricken area into neighbors' homes. Particular care was taken of small children who had become separated from their panic stricken parents.

An hour later the residents were too hysterical to give coherent accounts of their experiences and were digging into the debris in search of their possessions.

The five block area presented a mass of twisted and torn houses, felled telegraph poles, smashed automobiles and garages. Roofs were blown into the streets and houses were turned end on end.

Struck Garage First.

The wind first struck a garage on St. Claude avenue, wrecked the building and crushed about twenty automobiles. It then skipped two blocks and levelled a filling station. It rose for another block and then settled down on the five block area of dwellings where it turned the neighborhood into wreckage and pandemonium.

The section consisted mainly of one story frame dwellings and sheds, and was occupied by approximately 400 persons, mostly of moderate means.

Max Zimmer, elevator operator in the postoffice building, whose home was in the path of the wind, said:

ComeWith Terrible Noise

"It came with a terrible noise, like a flock of freight trains. Everything shook like an earthquake. My house shook and the wind took off an edge of my shed and passed on. Everybody was screaming. My wife and children were badly frightened. I saw one woman, seriously injured, with a chunk of wood driven into her body. Automobiles were turned over and smashed all over the nighborhood."

A mile from the five black area toward the lake fifteen additional houses were reported blown down and a string of empty box cars were blown off the tracks.

Mrs. Cassie Blachard, who lived near the lake, said she saved her children by rushing them out of the house into a field. All of them, she said, laid flat on the ground and held on to weeds. One of her children was blown over a fence and another was struck by a flying rock but their injuries were not regarded by her as serious.

She said she saw the storm coming with a freight car flying through the air and she and her children ran for their lives.
